DISTRICT'S JUSTICES WORK TOO LITTLE, IS CLAIM IN COMMITTEE

Members of House Make Threat to Halt Plan for More Judges.

JURISTS SEE REPORT OF LABORS FOR WEEK

Average Time Spent on Bench Each Day Is Three Hours.

RESEARCH IS CITED IN COURT'S DEFENSE

Simmons Pushes Charge, However, That Trials Could Be Faster.

Criticism that the justices of the District of Columbia Supreme Court are not working hard enough and a threat that there will be no additional judges until they do were aired Tuesday by members of the subcommittee of the House appropriations committee, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

The criticism and the threat were made in the presence of Acting Chief Justice Wendell P. Stafford and Associate Justice Frederick L. Siddons, United States Marshal Edgar C. Snyder and Clerk Frank E. Cunningham. All had been called before the subcommittee relative to appropriations.

The justices were confronted with a time table for one week showing the hour they went on the bench, the hour they recessed for lunch, the hour they reconvened court, and the hour they adjourned for the day. This table, Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, and subcommittee chairman, explained, had been compiled after a man summoned for jury duty had complained he had "to cool his heels" while waiting for the judge to mount the bench. This is the investigation revealed exclusively in The Post several months ago. This table showed that the average time spent per day on the bench by each of the judges during the week was three hours.

Hours of Five Judges Shown.

While the table contained no figures on former Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy and did not give hours and minutes as to Justice Stafford, it showed the following: Justice Gordon, 13 hours and 3 minutes; Justice Hitz, 7 hours and 43 minutes; Justice Siddons, 20 hours and 7 minutes; Justice Bailey, 15 hours and 30 minutes, and Justice Wheat, 17 hours and 55 minutes.

Representative Simmons declared that in the country he comes from the judges, most of whom must be elected by the people, sit on the bench at least five hours a day. He declared that the time spent on the bench by the local justices as indicated by the time table is entirely too short.

Speaking particularly to the justices present, he said: "Now I had just as soon tell you that if I can stop it, there will be no more judges until we get some evidence that the judges we have already are working harder down there than this record shows they are."

Records Are Explained.

Both Justice Stafford and Justice Siddons attempted to explain how it was possible for a judge to sit on the bench only a limited time. Justice Stafford stated that he had been ill recently and returned to work only against the advice of his physician. He stated that when he insisted on returning to work his physician told him not to work more than two hours a day. Both explained that under act of Congress there can be no session of the court after 12 o'clock on Saturday.

The justices pointed out that in civil cases a judge often had to do considerable research work before he can prepare an opinion. Representative Simmons admitted that this contention was true, pointing out that he is a lawyer and that he knew about such things. The committee, however, bore down on the reason more work was not done in the courts holding jury trials. Representative Simmons made the emphatic statement that the committee was not trying to judge the work of the court by the number of cases tried.

The hearings lasted for more than an hour and a half and a resume of the transcript of the proceedings in brief follows:

Mr. Thatcher (Representative Thatcher, of Kentucky)—Now, has there been any discussion in your court as to whether you need additional courts?

Justice Stafford—If there were ten judges working all the time they could not keep up with the current business.

Mr. Simmons—Not if they did not work any more than this table indicates the present judges do.

At this point members of the committee pointed out that every year

DEMURRER ATTACKS DENISON TRUE BILL

Charges Characterized as Vague and Uncertain in Defense Paper.

ARGUMENT SLATED SOON

Representative Edward E. Denison, of the Twenty-fifth District of Illinois, dry-voting-Republican, yesterday attacked the indictment charging possession of intoxicating liquor which was returned recently by the District of Columbia grand jury against him and his former secretary, John Layne.

The attack in form of a demurrer was filed by the representative's attorneys, Everett Sanders, former secretary to President Coolidge; E. Hilton Jackson and William E. Leahy.

Charge is made that the indictment is so vague and uncertain that "any judgment returned upon a verdict after trial thereon would not protect the defendant against a subsequent prosecution for the same offense."

It also is alleged that the indictment does not specify the kind or quantity of whisky which the true bill charges was found in a trunk in the office of the representative in the House Office Building more than a year ago. It is set out that there is no definition of time or place or how the alleged offense was committed, or how and in what manner the whisky was alleged to have been possessed.

The demurrer specifies that the indictment "jointly charges two defendants with unlawful possession of whisky," but does not show "the acts of either or both of said defendants specifically constituting the said unlawful possession."

In conclusion, the demurrer declares that the indictment "alleges commission of distinct and separate offenses by different defendants in one and the same charge, and does not allege that said acts were done jointly or that defendants acted in concert."

Denison and Layne were indicted several weeks ago for alleged possession of liquor on January 19. On that date, according to testimony said to have been given to the grand jury, prohibition agents went to the representative's office and seized the trunk, which had been sent from New York. The seizure followed the discovery of a leaking suit case in an express office here.

When indicted Denison was at his home in Marion, Ill., but he came here shortly afterward and made bond of $1,00 for appearance at trial. Argument on the demurrer probably will be heard shortly before Justice Peyton Gordon.

TAFT IS HELD IN BEST SHAPE SINCE RETURN

Rally Begins as Physicians Administer Opiates to Induce Sleep.

CHILDREN TO COME HOME

(Associated Press.)

Refreshed by sleep, William Howard Taft was described last night by his physicians as being in better condition than at any time since his return to Washington Tuesday from Asheville, N. C.

A bulletin issued after a call upon the distinguished patient early last evening said:

"The former Chief Justice has taken more nourishment and shows a more decided improvement than at any time since his return to Washington."

The rally of the former President and Chief Justice began Wednesday and was encouraged yesterday by medicines to induce more sleep. The physicians experienced some difficulty in giving him sufficinet nourishment this morning, but he was fed in the afternoon with more ease.

Meanwhile, members of the family were making plans to come to Washington. Two sons, Charles P. and Robert A. Taft, have been summoned from Cincinnati, and with Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, their sister, are expected to reach here late in the week. Horace Taft, a brother of the former Chief Justice, probably will arrive today.

The former Chief Justice was described as being in better possession of his mental faculties yesterday than previously. He recognized two of the house servants and spoke to them.

Late in the day, he aroused from sleep and asked if "Nellie" was about. Mrs. Taft was summoned and spent some time talking with her husband.

While his physicians were pleased with the progress he had made yesterday, they did not relax their vigilance and still considered his condition serious.

In contrast with the last two days, the Wyoming avenue neighborhood, where the Taft residence is located, was devoid of many passersby yesterday. The spacious red brick home had several callers as usual, bearing messages of encouragement from the numerous friends of the former President and Chief Justice. The Senate yesterday adopted a resolution expressing regret for his "serious ill-

CHEST DEFICIT IS $327,631 AS DRIVE GOES ON

Campaign Will Continue Till Monday Night, Poole States.

$281,173 DONATIONS ANNOUNCED FOR DAY

Hoovers Double Amount of Previous Gift to Fund.

OFFERING OF $5,000 IS WIRED BY DOHENY

60,000 Pledge Cards Will Be Distributed Today Among Federal Employes.

Latest figures showing that the Community Chest still lacks $327,631.49 of its 1930 quota of $1,786,737.07, John Poole, campaign chairman, announced at a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel that the drive will continue until Monday night, when new reports will be made at a dinner at the Willard.

New subscriptions of $281,173.99 were announced last night, bringing the total collected to $1,459,105.58 from 48,647 contributors. A telegraphed gift of $5,000 from Edward L. Doheny was the largest new subscription announced last night.

Mr. Poole announced that 60,000 pledge cards will be distributed throughout Government departments today through G. W. Libbey, chief clerk of the Department of Commerce and president of the Chief Clerks Association. Not having received earlier permission from President Hoover to solicit in the departments, Chest workers had seen employes only in their homes, but it was announced that they had been complaining of not being reached by solicitors, and of having difficulty in making their contributions.

President Doubles Gift.

President Hoover yesterday doubled his contribution, Mr. Poole said, although he did not make public the amount given by the presidential family.

Newbold Noyes, chairman of the special gifts committee, read a letter from Col. U. S. Grant 3d, stating that about $45,000 would be sent to the chest within the next few weeks by the inaugural committee of the Charity Ball, and this figure therefore was included in the total collections of the Community Chest to date.

Mr. Noyes also announced other new collections by the special gifts group of $40,179.21, bringing its total to $875,754.

Other Donations Reported.

Merritt O. Chance, chairman of the metropolitan unit, reported new collections of $114,508.78, and Frank R. Jelleff, chairman of the group solicitation unit, reported an additional $84,038.

The average contribution of employes of department stores in Washington this year has been $4.58, Mr. Jelleff reported. He also paid high tribute to the policemen and firemen

CROSBY CHOICE SEEN AS ARMY RULE IN SENATE

Debate on Selection of General Begun in Upper House.

BLEASE WELCOMES MILITARY CONTROL

Southern Member Says Capital Clean-Up Is Needed.

COPELAND QUESTION INDICATES BATTLE

Discussion Regarded as Sure When Committee Gets Nomination.

The selection of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as District Commissioner and the question of "military rule" here were debated in the Senate yesterday.

Senator Cole L. Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, who thinks Washington is "rotten to the core," praised the selection of Gen. Crosby, and expressed the hope that President Hoover would appoint another major general to serve with him and clean up the city.

"Is there no impression in the senator's mind that the law is that two of the commissioners must be civilians?" Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, asked him.

Blease Welcomes Military Rule.

"I understand this man will be one after the twenty-first day of March," Senator Blease replied.

"Then there is no reason why the President should not appoint another major general who will retire a little later," Senator Copeland said.

"I hope he will," retorted Blease.

"Then we will have the city under military rule," said Copeland.

"I hope we will," rejoined Blease, "and perhaps we will have a better city."

The debate evidently was but the beginning of what promises to be a real controversy over the eligibility of Gen. Crosby for the office of Commissioner. That the question will come up when the nomination is considered by the Senate District committee seems certain. Both Blease and Copeland are members of the committee.

Hoover's Request Attached.

In the course of his speech yesterday, Senator Blease chided President Hoover for asking for more White House policemen and again attacked Maj. Henry G. Pratt, chief of police. He also commented on crime in Chinatown and on the arrest of Policeman George C. McCarron. This officer, a member of the liquor squad, was arrested on a charge of driving while drunk, after a Chinese New Year's party.

Commenting on the request of President Hoover for a larger White House police force, Senator Blease said:

"I want to assure the President of the United States that if he really

U. S., BRITAIN STRIKE PARITY SETTLEMENT; EARLY JUNKING SEEN

Text of Stimson Statement Outlining Equality Accord

London, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—A statement given out by Col. Henry L. Stimson, head of the American naval delegation, follows:

At the opening of the conference the United States delegation made no statement of its position or of the needs of its country beyond the historical fact of agreement in principle for parity between Great Britain and the United States.

We are now in a position where we can go further. Following discussions among ourselves, and negotiations with the British and Japanese which have clarified the limits of possible agreement, our delegation has made suggestions as follows:

First, with Britain, immediate parity in every class of ship in the Navy. The gross tonnage of these two fleets is substantially 1,200,000 tons apiece.

Negotiations between President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald last summer practically reduced the discussion of parity between them to the comparatively insignificant difference in their respective cruiser class tonnage of 24,000 tons.

We propose to settle this difference as follows: Under our suggestion, the actual tonnage difference between the two cruiser fleets will be only 12,000.

Of the larger cruisers armed with 8-inch guns Great Britain will have fifteen and the United States eighteen, an advantage to the latter of 30,000 tons.

SHIFTING OF TONNAGE ALLOWED IN COMPACT

Final Accord Dependent on Negotiations With France and Japan.

ORIENTALS ARE ASKED TO SCRAP BATTLESHIP

Stimson Wants Destruction Started Ahead of Dates in Washington Treaty.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Secretary of State Stimson, head of the United States delegation to the London naval conference, in a statement here tonight announced what may be said with confidence to represent an agreed basis of naval parity between the United States and Great Britain, subject only to a satisfactory arrangement between Great Britain and France and to a settlement with Japan.

This historic document, although it purports to describe only the "suggestions" of the American delegation, was shown to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald before publication, and I can state that Great Britain will accept it if the French and Japanese building programs, as ultimately hammered out, meet with British approval.

The United States and Great Britain, it is revealed, are to attain battleship parity next year by the scrapping of two more British capital ships than are retired by the United States. In return for this the United States drops its demand for 21 big cruisers, which until yesterday it seemed certain would be pressed. We are to have eighteen big cruisers to Great Britain's fifteen.

Class Advantages Balance.

This advantage to the United States of 30,000 tons in big cruisers will be compensated by Great Britain taking an excess over America of 42,000 tons in 6-inch-gun cruisers.

There is further agreement, subject to British reservations about other powers, upon equality in destroyers, representing a sacrifice by the United States, and in aircraft carriers, of which Great Britain now possesses more than we do, while submarines, if not abolished, are to be reduced to the "lowest tonnage possible."

Although this is not stated, it is understood that parity in submarines among the three leading naval powers will be sought, but the French submarine attitude and the state of negotiations with Japan make it premature to put this aim forward officially.

Transfer Clause Inserted.

There is nothing new in the British and American figures excepting their approach to finality, but a novel feature of the Anglo-American agreement is a clause inserted in the American statement to meet any possible future objections in the United States that real parity has not been achieved.

This is an ingenious application of the French transfer idea to Anglo-American cruiser fleets. Great Britain having the option to reduce her small cruisers on an agreed yardstick basis and build three more big ones with the transfer tonnage, so as to have exact equality with the United States in 8-inch gun cruisers, and the United States having the option to drop three big cruisers and, instead, "to increase the number of its small cruisers, so as to give it a total cruiser tonnage of 339,000 tons, the exact amount of tonnage which the British now ask."

This will be accepted by the British without question, and is generally felt tonight to represent a diplomatic triumph for the ideal of parity, since it permits the Navy Depart-

CAMPHOR RATE VOTE DISRUPTS COALITION

Harrison Leads Democrats in Bolt as Levy Is Raised to 5 Cents.

FLAYED BY COLLEAGUES

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate progressives began to look with decidedly suspicious eyes upon their Democratic brethren yesterday when twelve of them, led by Senator Pat Harrison, voted for a 5 cent tariff rate on synthetic camphor after the Senate had weeks ago approved a 1 cent levy.

Not only did the progressives circulate rumors that something had radically gone wrong, but a serious squabble broke out in the Democratic camp. It was the second time within a week that Mr. Harrison had led some of his Democratic colleagues away from the coalition fight, the other instance being when he joined with Republican regulars in voting for American valuation on dyestuffs.

The existing rate on camphor is 6 cents. Even the high tariff House ways and means committee reduced it to 1 cent. The Senate finance committee restored the 6 cents rate, but several weeks ago Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, led a fight for the 1 cent rate.

Out of a clear sky yesterday Senator Kean, of New Jersey, proposed a reconsideration on the ground that a higher rate would protect a plant in his State producing 500 pounds a day that was trying to get on its feet. It was contended that the country uses between two and three million pounds a year.

It was on the promise of this plant to develop a camphor industry that the 6 per cent rate was granted in 1922. The House ways and means committee took the view that inasmuch as the plant had made no progress in this direction it was not entitled to further protection. Senator Kean contended, however, that it had recently changed hands and was now prepared to go ahead.

Kean wanted the 6-cent rate but Harrison proposed a 5-cent rate and it was adopted, 48 to 29.

Mr. La Follette, asserting that he was against giving protection to an

JUNKING PLAN FINDS OPPOSITION IN JAPAN

Authorities Hint, However, That Maximum Tonnage Cut Might Be Traded.

FEAR KONGO SCRAPPING

Tokyo, Feb. 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Immediate scrapping of capital ships due for replacement in 1934 under the terms of the Washington treaty, which dispatches from the London naval conference intimate has been suggested by American delegates in conversation with the Japanese representatives, would meet with general opposition in official circles here. Japanese naval authorities hint that agreement with such proposals might be forthcoming if the conference, in turn, met the Japanese desire that the maximum tonnage of battleships to be built after 1936 be limited to 25,000 tons instead of the 35,000-ton maximum size permitted under the Washington treaty.

It is understood her ethat the American proposal would necessitate scrapping of the Kongo, which, with the Hiyei, Kirishima and Harum forms a four-ship unit. Officials contend that scrapping on eof these vessels would curtail the entire unit's effectiveness.

It is unofficially declared in Tokyo that the vessels the United States proposes to scrap are all virtually obsolete.

Tokyo naval circles also oppose triangular submarine parity between the United States, Great Britain and Japan with a maximum tonnage in this class of vessel placed at 70,000 tons. They assert that Japan's minimum need in submarines for coastal defense is 78,000 tons. It is suggested that a compromise might be arrived at if this country were given the right to transfer the extra 8,000 tons from other categories, provided she does not receive an inferior ratio in light cruisers and destroyers.

Attack on Ortiz Rubio Is Attributed to Plot

Youthful Assailant Defiant As Police Question Him About Members of His Family.

Mexico City, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Police and military authorities tonight held approximately a score of persons under arrest after a joint investigation into the attempted assassination of President Ortiz Rubio shortly after the inaugural ceremonies yesterday.

President Ortiz Rubio underwent a second operation this morning to remove a piece of splintered bone from his jaw, but came out of the anesthetic in good shape, it was learned tonight. His doctors insisted that his condition was good.

Lieut. Col. Chazaro, the president's private secretary, said this afternoon that former President Calles, Secretary Portes Gil and the other members of the cabinet had seen Ortiz Rubio today, but only at a distance. The president's doctors strictly ordered that no one should be allowed to talk with him.

Daniel Flores, the well dressed, quiet young man who fired six shots from a .38 caliber pistol into the presidential limousine, wounding the president in the cheek and jaw, was constantly questioned during the day at the military prison.

The military authorities endeavored to get to the bottom of what they believed to have been a well-prepared plot against Ortiz Rubio.

Flores maintained a defiant attitude and insisted that he alone had planned and executed the assassination attempt.

The exact number of persons detained and their names were not divulged, but one young woman and a young man connected with the headquarters staff of the "Vasconcelista," or antireelectionist party, during the presidential campaign, were said to be among them.

Gen. Mijares Palacios, chief of police, this afternoon made public part of the scant information that has been obtained from Flores by constant questioning. He said that Flores, when asked if he had a father, had evaded giving any clew to his identity or his past.

"Every one is supposed to have a father, isn't he?" Flores said.

"What is your father's name?" he was then asked.

"I don't know."

After blocking the progress of this kind of cross-examination for a while, Palacios said, Flores remarked:

"To show you how clever your detectives are I want to make you a little present."

Thereupon he extracted from his sleeve six revolver cartridges the detectives had not found.

The authorities believe that Flores was born and raised in the State of Modern Carrie Nation Fails To Halt Hewers of Cedars

Relentless Woodmen Disregard Pleas to Spare Trees and Bring Modern Crusader to Jail; Freed by Judge, Campaign Continues.

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Feb. 6.—A modern Carrie Nation in a sylvan setting, venting her wrath upon the symbolical weapon of Carrie's rum crusading—the hatchet—waged a relentless "woodman, spare that tree" fight here today, and lost.

She was Miss Violet Dandridge, member of a family well known in Virginia and West Virginia, whose grim, resolute activities provided a spectacular and widely discussed climax to the State program for cutting down cedar trees diseased with a wind-blown rust which kills apple trees.

After leveling cedars throughout this section in line with the eradication program, State woodchoppers today swooped down on the Miss Sue Lemen place, landmark, property which several days ago was purchased by Miss Dandridge.

Undeterred when her protestations to the woodmen went unheeded, Miss Dandridge militantly embarked on a policy of counter attack, and throughout the day made life miserable for the force of men. As soon as they singled out a tree for felling, she flung her arms about the first notch hewn out and literally dared continuance of work.

When the workers moved along to other trees she employed the same tactics. Although the fourteen men finally separated into small groups, she continually harassed them. Fuming and fretting, they summoned police, who found her seated on the Prohibition Unit Transfer Assured of House Passage

Little Opposition Seen to Bill, But Both Wets and Drys Attack Provision on Joint Responsibility for Regulation of Alcohol Permits.

(Associated Press.)

The Williamson bill to carry out the first of President Hoover's proposals to strengthen dry enforcement by transferring the prohibition unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department yesterday received its first consideration in the House, where its passage by tomorrow virtually was assured.

Although there is little opposition to the transfer there, an attack was launched immediately by wets and drys against a provision to make the Attorney General and Secretary of the Treasury jointly responsible for regulation of industrial alcohol permits. The wets are agreed they want to give the drys everything they desire to enforce the law under the bill, so that there will be no alibi when, as they contend, enforcement will have failed in the Justice Department.

Some want the Attorney General to make regulations under which the Secretary of the Treasury may issue permits. Others believe the dual responsibility will result in a spying by Justice Department agents on legitimate industrial alcohol consuming concerns, and that the Treasury alone should regulate the 160,000 permittees.

The Law Enforcement Commission's recommendations for legislation to relieve Federal court congestion by empowering United States commissioners to try casual or slight offenders of the dry laws was defended yesterday before a House judiciary subcommittee by Chairman Wickersham and Roscoe Pound, of the commisments or the admiralty to change their minds within certain limits as to the type of cruiser desired in future without raising the question of disturbance of parity between the two fleets.

"Big Navy" Protest Likely.

There will be a perfunctory outcry here from the big navy school, but this will mean next to nothing, for the board of admiralty has supported Mr. MacDonald in agreeing to Mr. Stimson's terms as announced tonight, subject always to reservations about France and Japan.

It can now be stated that the American demand for 21 8-inch gun cruisers, which it is understood had been pressed here by Secretary of the Navy Adams and the experts, was one development of the conference most feared by the British because of its repercussion in Japan. Mr. MacDonald has explained to the Americans that this would put the Japanese program up and that Australia would be in a ferment if at the same time British big cruiser strength wasn't raised in proportion to Japanese.

That vicious circle has been avoided by the United States taking eighteen cruisers, and without any authority for the statement the New York World News Service correspondent surmises, in view of known debates in the American delegation, that this decision, which may prove all-important for the fate of the conference, was taken not in London but in the White House. It is significant that in the same statement that makes this announcement Mr. Stimson is able to say, "Our delegation is in agreement on every item of our program."

Japanese Elections Awaited.

Second only in importance to the announcement of parity terms with Great Britain is Mr. Stimson's declaration that "our suggestions to the Japanese would produce an 'over-all' relation satisfactory to us and we hope to them. In conformity with our relations in the past, it is not based upon the same ratio in every class of ship."

This, read in conjunction with the following statement that "we have not made proposals to the French and Italians," means that an American program has been put before Japan which is not yet ripe for public discussion. No statement could be obtained from the Japanese delegation tonight, but it was hinted that the result of conversations with the Americans have been sent to Tokyo and that perhaps no definite decisions are likely to be taken before the Japanese elections a fortnight from tomorrow.

Insertion in the Secretary of State's statement of the phrase "settlement of the Italian and French problem is essential, of course, to the agreement contemplated," almost seems to give the American document the sense of an Anglo-American communique. For this phrase is not American—it is British.

Accord With Japan in Sight.

The American building program has reference only to Great Britain and Japan, not to France or Italy, whereas British plans depend on agreements with France. Therefore, again without authority, it may be assumed that the phrase quoted is in effect MacDonald's, not Stimson's, and means that the British have asked that the Americans be warned that British acquiescence depends upon other navies.

Late tonight the Japanese delegation declared that they and Mr. Stimson have exchanged a promise not to talk for publication regarding their naval conversations. From another Japanese source, however, the New York World News Service is informed that in line with Mr. Stimson's proposal of battleship scrapping for Great Britain and America he has proposed that Japan scrap one battleship.

In addition, the American Secretary of State has suggested that Japanese submarine tonnage be cut from the present 78,000 tons to something under 60,000 tons.

Cruiser Ratio Talk Postponed.

Discussion of the American-Japanese cruiser ratio has been dropped for the time being, both the American and the Japanese delegates agreeing to leave settlement of the hardest problem to last.

It is presumed that the Japanese capital ship which would be scrapped under Mr. Stimson's proposal is the battle cruiser Kongo, which, under the Washington treaty replacement schedule, is due to be scrapped in 1934.

The Americans want to scrap battleships quickly and not wait for the dates provided in the Washington treaty. This is indicated in the declaration by Mr. Stimson in favor of parity with great Britain next year, and the idea clearly is that Great Britain should scrap five battleships as soon as possible and the United States junk three. These would presumably be the oldest in the service, the American Florida and Utah and either Arkansas or the Wyoming and four British ships of the Iron Duke type with the battle cruiser Tiger.

Japan, however, under the Washington treaty, is required to scrap only one ship. She has only six battleships, and the reported demand that she scrap two while the United States scraps three and Great Britain five would meet with strong opposition, according to members of the Japanese delegation.

This is probably one of the thorny points as yet not dealt with, because in Japanese circles it is said that before making any such agreement Japan would ask reduction in the maximum size of battleships to be built after 1936 from the 35,000-ton limit fixed in the Washington treaty to 25,000 tons.

German Ship an Obstacle.

The American delegation up to now has taken the line that this subject should be postponed for the next naval conference, five years hence, to deal with, since the proposed naval holiday will mean no battleship building before that time.

There is another serious menace to the battleship holiday project and that is the new German pocket battleship, the Ersatz Preussen. France is understood to be considering building at least one battle cruiser of 15,000 to 17,000 tons, mounting 14-inch guns, as a reply to the German ship, and this would have immediate repercussions upon the British big cruiser program.

France has a right to build such a vessel independent of the cruiser program under the Washington treaty, but until the German ship was laid down had no intentions of building any capital ships.

First Open Wrangle.

Everything else today was dwarfed by Secretary Stimson's statement tonight, but this morning was diversified by the first open row of the conference, between the English and the French. It wasn't important, but it was funny. The French let it be known last night that at the plenary session on submarines next Tuesday they proposed to bring forward a proposal for humanizing the use of submarines at sea.

This was too much for the British, because in fact the British and American delegations had with great difficulty imposed this on Premier Andre Tardieu yesterday. The Americans were inclined to say nothing excepting the significant "we suggest" in Stimson's statement which puts forward limiting of submarine warfare to the rules applying to surface ships. The British, however, were not disposed to leave it at that, and their official spokesman said:

"If there's any question of giving credit for raising this matter it must be stated that the French haven't taken the initiative. It's being pressed on them. Great Britain has the full support of America in proposing, first of all, abolition, and, secondly, the humanizing of the submarine, and it is in fact a joint Anglo-American move which has its beginnings today."

Adams Blocks Limitation Row.

There was progress made in the committee of the whole today on the interminable wrangle over whether navies should be limited by total tonnage or by classes of ships, largely due to an impatient speech by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams.

Rene Masigli, for France, said that if the British would drop their phrase, "agreed basis," for determining categories, France would agree to the phrase "after previous consultations and successive approximations." When the committee started to discuss this Adams intervened with the remark that committee No. 1 has no power, anyway, and should not waste its time over "terminology," which would come in more usefully when it was time to draft the treaty.

An expert committee was then appointed to continue discussion of categories and report back to committee No. 1. The American experts on this subcommittee were announced tonight as Capt. W. W. Smith, Commander Harold C. Train and George A. Gordon.

COL. STIMSON DINED BY OLD HONOR GUARD

Officers Who Escorted Him in Hongkongg Entertain Him in London.

PIPERS PLAY FOR GUESTS

London, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Amid the strains of Scottish airs played by bagpipers, Secretary of State Stimson tonight cemented a Scottish-American alliance begun by American Marines attached to the naval conference with the Royal Scots Guards Regiment on their arrival in London.

The Secretary was entertained at a dinner in the mess hall at St. James' Palace by twelve officers of the Second battalion, Scots Guards, who had formed a guard of honor for him in Hongkong when he was on his way to become governor general of the Philippines.

"I had the time of my life," he said on leaving his hosts.

The guards officers were informally attired in red mess jackets and wore no decorations. Secretary Stimson, garbed in evening dress, wore none of his.

During the dinner the pipers marched around the table playing "The Portree Men," "Arniston Castle," "Fields of Flanders," and other airs. Pipe-Maj. MacIntosh played a solo number, "The Desperate Battle," after which a single toast to "the king" was proposed and drunk while all stood rigidly at attention.

The officers proudly showed Mr. Stimson ancient relics in the adjoining rooms, including a sword given by Queen Anne to the Duke of Marlborough and a hoof from a horse that Napoleon rode in several of his major battles, including Jena, Wagram and Austerlitz. The horse's hoof now is a snuff-box, and in accordance with long-standing custom, Mr. Stimson took a pinch of snuff from it.

One of the American Secretary's pleasures in meeting the Scots Guards officers came from the fact that his first foreign contact during the war was with the Fifty-first Highlanders, when as lieutenant colonel of artillery, he was assigned to a Scottish division in January and February, 1918. When he left, the Guards officers promised to put him in touch with his old acquaintances in the Highlanders.

Statement by Stimson Sets Out Parity Accord

Of the small cruisers armed with 6-inch guns, Great Britain will have an advantage of 42,00 tons. But beyond this, in order to insure exact equality of opportunity, the United States makes the suggestion that each country will have the option of duplicating exactly the cruiser fleet of the other.

Thus Great Britain would have the option by reducing its number of small cruisers to increase its large cruisers from 15 to 18, so as to give it a total tonnage of 327,000 tons, the exact amount to tonnage which the United States now asks.

On the other hand, the United States would have the option, by reducing its large cruisers from 18 to 15, to increase the number of its small cruisers so as to give it a total cruisers tonnage of 390,000 tons, the exact amount of tonnage which the British now ask.

In battleships, we suggest by the reduction in numbers on both sides to equalize our two fleets in 1931 instead of in 1942. At present the British battleship fleet contains two more vessels than ours.

In destroyers and aircraft carriers we suggest equality of tonnage, and in submarines the lowest tonnage possible. As is well known we will gladly agree to the total abolition of submarines if it is possible to obtain the consent of all five powers to such a proposition, and in any event we suggest that operations of submarines be limited to the same rules of international law as surface craft in their operations against merchant ships, so that they can not attack without providing for the safety of passengers and crews.

Second, our suggestion to the Japanese delegation would produce an "overall" relation satisfactory to us and, we hope, to them. In conformity with our relations in the past, it is not based upon the same ratio in every class of ships.

We have not made proposals to the French and Italians, whose problems are not so directly related to ours that we feel it appropriate at this time to make suggestions to them. A settlement of Italian and of French problems is essential, of course, to the agreement contemplated.

The United States delegates do not feel at liberty to discuss any further details in figures, and it is obvious that the announcement of hypothetical figures by others is calculated only to provoke argument.

Our delegation is in agreement on every item of the program, and we are in the most hopeful spirit that in cooperation with the other delegations the primary purposes of the conference, namely the termination and prevention of competition in naval armament, and such reductions as are found consistent with national security may be accomplished.

This is all we deem it helpful to state until our suggestions have been considered by the delegations to whom they have been sent.

Patterson Asks House To Aid Disarmament

(Associated Press.)

Calling attention to the sixth anniversary of the death of Woodrow Wilson on February 3, 1924, Representative Patterson (Democrat), Alabama, yesterday asked the House of Representatives to assume its full share of responsibility in reduction of armaments.

"As we go further and finally have an organization for making the peace of the world secure," he said, "the name of Woodrow Wilson will ever be linked with that accomplishment." He named as a trio of outstanding national heroes, William Jennings Bryan, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

ness" and hope that he would soon recover.

President Hoover, Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, and other high officials in Washington continued to keep in close touch with the condition of their illustrious friend. Every bulletin formulated by the doctors was sent forthwith to the White House where it was read and made public at once.

The same interest in Mr. Taft's condition was evident throughout the city, where year after year he has been a familiar and well-loved figure. Up until not so long ago he enjoyed taking walks in the vicinity of his home, especially across the lengthy Connecticut avenue bridge which spans a section of Rock Creek Park. He always had a kind word ready for those who wished him "good day."

DISTRICT COURT JUSTICES WORK TOO LITTLE, CHARGE

Congress is asked to appropriate more money for juries. The members of the committee cited the time table and asked the justices if in their opinion the time spent on the bench as indicated by the table was not rather brief.

Justice Stafford—Now as a practical matter that does look short.

Mr. Simmons—It is short!

Justice Stafford—But I would like to see you go down there and hold court and undertake to do much more with the bar here and the witnesses.

At this point Mr. Simmons expressed the opinion that the hours which the court operates in the District should be mighty pleasing to the members of the bar, explaining that with court adjourning at such early hours the lawyers had time to prepare cases for the next day and do office work. He stated that the time table had been placed in the hands of the Department of Justice, and pointed out that during the week checked no member of the bench had held court until 4 o'clock.

Five Hours Daily Suggested.

He suggested that the judges should at least sit on the bench five hours every day.

Justice Siddons at this point asked: "On the bench?"

Mr. Simmons replied: "On the bench."

Mr. Simmons pointed out that Police Court judges had told him that they handled 95 per cent of the criminal business of the District of Columbia and that Municipal Court judges had stated that they handled 93 or 95 per cent of the civil business.

Both justices pointed out that this was probably true, adding that in some months the grand jury returned 300 or more criminal indictments, and that the Municipal Court handled only civil cases involving sums up to $1,000.

Mr. Simmons pointed out that two Municipal Court judges had told him their court could handle all cases up to $3,000 or $5,000 without increasing their force and that they could clean up the work.

Opposition Is Hinted.

Justice Siddons—They are very unusual men and should be encouraged.

Mr. Simmons—I understand they are having opposition there from the Court of Appeals or from your court.

Justice Siddons—Our court! We have nothing to do with it.

Justice Stafford—There is no appeal to our court.

It was then pointed out that Municipal Court appeals went directly to the Court of Appeals.

At this point Frank E. Cunningham, clerk of the District Supreme Court, was asked if he had figures as to how far behind the court is in the trial of cases. Mr. Cunningham said he believed the court is two years behind in jury trials of civil cases and about twelve months behind in the trial of criminal cases.

Mr. Simmons—Why can not they be tried? The judges are there and the juries are there.

Mr. Cunningham—Because they can not reach them. They are cases that have accumulated.

Mr. Simmons—I understand that, but if the judges are there and willing to work the length of time necessary and the witnesses——

Mr. Cunningham (interposing)—Oh, if the judges would work 12 hours a day——

Mr. Simmons (interrupting Mr. Cunningham)—Let us stay down in the range of common sense. Nobody is asking the judges to work 12 hours a day.

Mr. Simmons at this point stated that a lawyer had told him that attorneys in Washington often surrendered part of a claim in order that they could get the case into Municipal Court where it would be disposed of quickly. He also stated that he had been told that many cases were compromised because the lawyers got tired of waiting for their cases to be calendared for trial.

Judges Cite Efforts.

Justice Stafford and Justice Siddons declared the judges in the District Supreme Court are doing everything humanly possible to clean up the docket on jury trials. They pointed out that very often in civil case and sometimes in criminal cases the attorneys are not ready when trial is called. They also stated that the United States attorney's office is doing its best to try people in jail before they tried people who were out on bond.

Opinion was expressed that the United States attorney's office is not sufficiently manned and that it does not have enough sufficiently paid assistants.

Justice Siddons, in his statement that the judges are doing everything humanly possible, also used the words "force of their command." He was asked what he meant by that, and he replied "judges."

It was at this point that Representative Simmons made his threat.

Office to Be Looked Into.

After that he stated that if the congestion in the court is due to the United States attorney's office he would locate it.

In addition to Representative Simmons, members of the committee are: Representative Holaday (Republican), Illinois; Representative Thatcher (Republican), Kentucky; Representative Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, and Representative Collins (Democrat), Mississippi.

The quizzing of the two justices was thoroughgoing. They were asked about the number of bailiffs assigned to their courts and about the manner in which the court calendar was made up and the method of placing cases on call.

CHEST DRIVE TO CONTINUE AS $500,000 DEFICIT LOOMS

of the district for their response to chest appeals, and remarked that every policeman whom he had seen on duty around the hotel last night was wearing a chest button.

Brief addresses, all of which expressed full confidence that the drive would result in completion of the chest quota by Monday were made by numerous supporters and officials of the organization. These also expressed appreciation for the manner in which the 4,500 solicitors have worked in face of extreme difficulties, most serious of which was the unfavorable weather which prevailed at the start of the campaign.

Many Workers Speak.

Among these speakers were C. Melvin Sharpe, chairman of the publicity committee; William C. Sullivan chairman of the speakers' unit; Mrs. John J. O'Connor, chairman of the information unit; Frederic A. Delano, president of the Community Chest; Elwood Street, its director; Mr. Chance, Mr. Noyes and Mr. Jelleff; Col. Guy V. Henry, commander of all troops in the District Army area, who declared that the Army is deeply interested in the chest; District Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro; William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.; Corcoran Thom, president of the American Security & Trust Co.; Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to President Wilson; Raymond Marx, chairman of the auditing unit, and Austin S. Imirie, chairman of the quota revision unit.

There were more than 3,000 persons present at the banquet, which taxed the capacity of all of the dining rooms at the hotel and overflowed into the balconies.

Failure to reach the quota in the prescribed time is attributed by Chest officials largely to weather conditions which marked the start of the drive. The snow and ice, which were followed by rain, were declared to have made it almost impossible for the army of 4,500 Community Chest workers to cover their territories properly.

Much Time Lost.

"We have lost practically half of our time during the campaign," John Poole, chairman, said. "Weather conditions have retarded the work of the teams to such an extent that we have really covered only the territory that should have been covered in the first three or four days, making us practically three days behind in our solicitation. We still believe that the people of Washington want the Chest to reach its goal and that if we continue for a few additional days they will contribute to an extent that will insure the success of the movement.

"Willingness of the people to contribute has been indicated by telephone calls to headquarters asking to see solicitors and by checks ranging in amount from $10 to several hundred dollars which have been brought in personally to Chest headquarters by contributors. Another feature that has given us much encouragement is that many people who had already given this year in amounts larger than their 1929 contributions later sent us in still further increases."

Community Chest headquarters, both permanent and temporary, were scenes of busy activity yesterday as workers called for additional pledge cards and otherwise prepared to make a thorough canvass of every prospect. President Hoover's radio appeal from the White House Wednesday was believed to have stimulated a renewed interest in the Chest and was expected to produce many additional gifts.

TREASURY HEAD HIT IN JOHNSON SPEECH

Mellon Is Taken to Task by Californian for Alleged Lack of Courtesy.

PATRONAGE STIRS ROW

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon was taken to task in the Senate yesterday by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, for "some things that simply are not done in official life."

"They are," said the Californian, "the refusal to reply to a courteous communication within reasonable time, that is official in character, by any department or a reply that may be either mistaken or deceptive in character. These things, I say, sir, are things simply that are not done in official life—except by the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States."

Senator Johnson spoke his mind after reading to the Senate an exchange of correspondence with Secretary Mellon over patronage in California. The nomination of Frank C. Tracey to be surveyor of customs at San Francisco was pending.

The senator recalled that this office had been abandoned in 1925. Last fall, he said, he heard it was to be revived and that Mr. Tracey was to be appointed.

Thereupon, Mr. Johnson told the Senate, he wrote to Mr. Mellon asking about it. He said the Secretary replied that "this department knows of no reason why the policy which has been followed since 1925 should be changed at this time and is not recommending the appointment of a surveyor at San Francisco."

Mr. Johnson related how Mr. Tracey then was appointed three months later to this office which had been abandoned. He said he then wrote to Mr. Mellon but had received no reply.

"I do not cavil of criticize," said Mr. Johnson. "I beg my brethren to understand the Secretary of the Treasury, for I understand full well how very, very busy he is engaged in behalf of efficiency and economy, and the recreation of another office is of very small consequence and doubtless escapes his notice."

Senator Johnson also related how he had inquired about the appointment of an internal revenue collector for San Francisco last summer. He said Secretary Mellon answered his letter a month later and after the appointment of a new man had been made.

The Californian offered no objection today to the confirmation of Mr. Tracey. The Senate confirmed him after Mr. Johnson spoke. No one replied to the Californian's remarks.

Bill Proposes Change In Appointment Method

A bill to change the system under which members of the Board of Public Welfare are appointed was introduced yesterday by Chairman Zihlman, of the House District committee. It was drafted by the District Commissioners.

To insure the presence on the board at all times of experienced men or women, the bill provides that three members be appointed for two years, three for four years, and three for six years. In the case of a vacancy, the new member would be appointed to serve for the unexpired term of his predecessor.

Gardner to Avoid Part In Carolina Election

(Associated Press.)

Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina, announced in a statement issued here yesterday that he would consider it "highly improper" to take a part in the approaching Democratic primary.

The statement was interpreted in some circles at the Capital as meaning a hands-off policy by the governor in the effort of J. W. Bailey, Raleigh, to defeat Senator Simmons for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Senator Simmons refused to support Alfred E. Smith as the party nominee in the last presidential election.

President Will Attend King's Mountain Fete

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday tentatively accepted an invitation to attend the 150th anniversary celebration of the Battle of Kings Mountain at Kings Mountain, N. C., on October 7, 1930.

The Chief Executive informed a group of officials from North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee that the invitation appealed to him greatly and that unless some unusual public duty kept him in Washington he would attend the celebration.

Senate District Group Meeting Is Announced

The Senate District committee will hold an executive meeting at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Chairman Capper announced yesterday.

At that time the committee probably will reach a decision with regard to the resolution authorizing a street car merger and also will decide what it is going to do about the Cramton park development bill and the Howell bill to provide the city with a special prohibition enforcement act.

Attack Is Regretted By Hoover and Senate

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover and the Senate expressed regret yesterday at the attempt made upon the life of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president of Mexico, and voiced hope for his speedy recovery from the bullet wound in his jaw.

Mr. Hoover said in a personal message that he was "deeply distressed to learn of the cowardly attack," made upon the Mexican president and his family, adding that he and Mrs. Hoover "rejoice with the American people that you and Senora de Ortiz Rubio have suffered no serious harm and that you have been spared to carry on your constructive program."

The Senate expressed its sentiments in a resolution offered by Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama. The measure was adopted without debate and the secretary of the Senate was directed to send a copy to the Mexican president. The resolution said:

"The Senate has heard with deep regret and profound sorrow of the attempt to assassinate Honor Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president of the republic of Mexico, and wishes for him a speedy recovery."

"BACK TO DISTRICT" URGED AT MEETING

Movement Started Three Years Ago Is Growing, Speaker Asserts.

HEALTH RADIO PROGRAM

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Speaking at the meeting of the Barcroft School and Civic League last night, J. Cloyd Byars, counsel for the Back to the District Association, declared that the movement which was started by the association more than three months ago is growing.

"The passage of the Cramton bill in the House and expectations of its passage in the Senate are but another reason why this area should again become a part of the District of Columbia," he said.

Mr. Byars stated that plans are now under way to have the General Assembly of Virginia take the question under consideration through a commission which it will ask to have appointed.

Owing to the illness of Ashton C. Jones, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, the board of directors at its meeting last night postponed action on the recommendations of the executive committee on appointment of chairmen to the several standing committees.

The Arlington County Monarch Club held its weekly luncheon meeting yesterday at the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse with President A. B. Honts presiding.

E. W. Wickey, vice president of the Washington Monarch Club and general counsel for the National organization, stressed the value of the permanent preservation of the scenic beauties that enrich the Potomac River on both the District of Columbia and Virginia shores.

"The value of the passage of the Cramton bill in the Senate as passed by the House of Representatives is almost impossible to estimate to this section of northern Virginia," he said.

While no official action on the bill has been taken by the local club, President Honts announced that the matter will be brought up at the meeting of the board of governors next Monday at the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon.

Arrangements are under way for the local club to pay an official visit to the Washington club soon.

Encouraged by the support which is being given by the medical profession, a special radio program under the auspices of the Arlington County Health Department was given last night over Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., in the interest of the campaign by the health department against tuberculosis.

Owing to the death of his brother, Judge R. L. H. Chichester, of Fredericksburg, the address prepared by Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, was delivered by his secretary, Miss Louise Spates, of Cherrydale.

In his address Dr. Chichester declared it takes workers and money, and more workers and more money, to carry on and progress in this work. "I feel that no greater service could be done a community than to carry out the spirit of a campaign against tuberculosis. It is not a spectacular campaign; it can not be accomplished with the snap and bang with which other campaigns can be accomplished; it is a slow and at times discouraging progress. But I feel that if the people of Arlington County can grasp this one idea and cling to it, the benefit by the conclusions they reach from careful consideration thereof, the results will be more spectacular than even my fondest hopes could conceive, namely, that every one who has tuberculosis in any form learn from those who know preventive medicine, how to live in such a way that they will not transmit the conditions to others."

The first health clinic in the county was organized under the direction of Dr. Cox, former healthofficer, and the first health center was located in what was formerly the town of Potomac. Today the county has two well-organized health centers, one in Cherrydale and the other in Clarendon. The one which is now within the city limits of Alexandria will be replaced by the building which the county will purchase in Aurora Hills.

Five years ago Dr. Chichester inaugurated a campaign against diphtheria, and after much effort has succeeded in practically eliminating the disease from the county.

Fire of unknown origin threatened the loss of the home of Mrs. Ern Fernandes, colored, at Rosslyn yesterday afternoon, causing damages estimated at $500.

With the fire declared out the several hundred citizens enjoyed much amusement when the colored firemen from East Arlington, eager to do their bit, started pouring hundreds of gallons of water into the house while Chief J. A. Spates of the Cherrydale department appealed to them to stop. All departments of the county responded.

A father and son banquet will be held tonight in the Arlington Methodist Church. An interesting program has been arranged.

The Parent-Teacher Association, together with the library committee from the Nellie Custis School at Aurora Hills, announces a bake sale tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in the drug store on Frazier avenue.

Wilmer Donohue, giving his address as Washington, charged with grand larceny, was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday. Bond was fixed at $2,500. Donohue is charged with stealing an automobile belonging to J. Hammond Brewer, jr., of Arlington County.

The car was said to have been taken in Rosslyn Tuesday night. The car was recovered Wednesday night by County Officers William H. Thompson and A. D. Langley on the Canal road.

Members of Columbia Lodge, No. 285, A. F. and A. M., have been invited to be the guests of the Vaughan Bible class of the Calvary Baptist Church in Washington at the morning service Sunday.

The Rev. Homer J. Councilor, pastor of the church, and Harry K. Green, past master of Columbia Lodge, and grand junior warden of the grand lodge of Masons in Virginia, are announced as the speakers.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School held a special meeting yesterday afternoon at the schoolhouse.

Plans were completed for the holding of a bake sale Friday, February 14.

Mrs. Alton Brown was elected chairman of the finance committee. Other members are Mrs. Lacey Woodyard, Mrs. L. R. Price, Mrs. P. A. Richmond, Mrs. K. Messick, Mrs. M. E. Hann, Mrs. W. D. Wildman, Mrs. J. L. Mathusa and Mrs. E. J. St. Jacques.

A large delegation from the Arlington Rotary Club left early last night for Winchester, where they attended the annual intercity meeting held at the George Washington Hotel.

There will be a special meeting of the executive committee assisting in the campaign against tuberculosis tonight in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Rees Building at Clarendon.

Schedules for the special clinics in connection with the campaign, together with the plans for the extensive canvass beginning next week, will be announced.

Brickbats & Bouquets

By JAMES HAY, JR.

DRY sleuths, senators and crusaders are not, we submit, competent witnesses when, having investigated a city, they declare it to be a whole lot drier than it used to be.

They hug the flattering unction to their souls that the boys who relish corn likker, gin cocktails and imitation champagne are galvanized into prodigious feats of drunkenness the moment a "dry" steps into the parlor.

They seem to think that, because individuals are foolish enough to imbibe, they are also sufficiently crazy to say to the snooper: "Your presence moves me to an orgy of confession. Lemme hand you a list of my bootleggers. Come into my barroom while I crack a hospitable barrel, take off the lid and shoot the works!"

Playboys and bootleggers are so keenly attuned to the dry menace that the moment a sleuth thrusts his aridity upon the scene their spines curl up, their goose flesh rises and their hair stands on end.

• • • • •

"DANGER!" they say to themselves, and immediately order the night club orchestra to play "Where is my wandering boy?" call for gallons of aerated water and gobble mouthfuls from the exhibition sandwich which has been set forth night after night for the past month as proof of the law-abiding spirit of the iniquitous den.

Then, twining adoring arms around the dry senator's neck, they fight off their irresistible impulses to choke him to death while confiding to his charmed and credulous ear that the bootleggers are scared stiff, the hijackers all murdered and prohibition ruthless, rough and regnant in their beautiful and booze-free city.

"But," inquires the senator, "why do people call this the wettest town in America?"

"Slander!" sobs one of the playboys. "Base and scurrilous slanders filling the country. Congress and columns of the press with character-slaying lies! A drink in this town? It's not to be had."

• • • •

THEREUPON, the solon, warmed to the cockles of his investigating heart by this display of virtue among bediamonded gams and gigolos, hastens back to Washington to inform a cynical world that the town in question is drier than Death Valley, the Sahara Desert and the Congressional Record all combined.

And the playboy, having put the crusader on the train, leaps to the telephone and gives the word signaling the night clubs to blossom into new revelry, the apartment house parties to add another octave to their riotous din, and the steady drinkers to wax swiftly unsteady.

Your drinker can spot the dries a mile off. He feels them in his bones. It's the same psychology as that expressed by the remark of a noted actor: "We were all drinking fast and having a highly intellectual and brilliant time when a sober man came in and spoiled the party!"

The only time a wet town goes dry is when a dry goes out looking for liquor.

Funeral Services Held for Veteran

Former Sergeant at Arms of Virginia House Is Buried From Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Madison Courthouse, Feb. 6.—Masonic funeral services and interment of D. M. Pattie, 84 years old, for many years sergeant-at-arms of the Virginia House of Delegates, were held this afternoon from his home here. He died Tuesday night.

Mr. Pattie was widely known throughout this section of the State. Born and reared in this county, he had made his home here continuously, except during his service in the House of Delegates. He had served several terms as sheriff of the county.

He was one of eight Confederate veterans who attired themselves in their war-time uniforms and participated in a celebration marking the visit of President Hoover to Madison Courthouse last summer. He also was a member of the Izaak Walton League and figured in the presentation of fishing tackle to the President on another occasion, being photographed with a group honoring Mr. Hoover. He was a past master of the Linn Banks Masonic Lodge.

Mrs. Katie M. Haller Dead at Cumberland

Woman Is Decapitated By Fly-Wheel on Saw

Richmond, Va., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Death, assuming the form of a fly-wheel to a saw, flew through space for two blocks today, plunged through the roof of a house, slashed a woman's head from her shoulders and buried itself deep in the ground under the floor.

James Brice, a Negro, was sawing wood in a vacant lot. The balance wheel, an iron disc half an inch thick, snapped as the saw was running at high speed. Winnie Jones, Negro woman, was struck by the iron and her face and half her head fell to the floor, while the iron tore on through the planking.

Martinsburg Company To Resume Operations

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 6.—Dunn Woollen Co., employing 300 persons here, manufacturing automobile cloth for the Ford Motor Co., announced today it would resume operations on a three-days-a-week schedule Monday, with the promise of a full-week schedule after March 1.

The company's plants have all been idle since last September, with the exception of pre-Christmas week. Overstocking with automobile cloth caused the suspension originally.

ground, refusing to accompany them, although making no resistance. Forcibly lifted into an automobile, she was taken before a justice of the peace, who regarded punishment as futile and quashed the case.

Freed, she strode to the battleground, pursued her same campaign, varying the procedure by hurling hatchets, saws and axes into the Potomac River. Later she removed other implements she could find, rushed to her home, locked them in a room and hid the key, according to police. Armed with a search warrant, authorities rescued the tools by using a ladder to effect an entry.

Miss Dandridge, braving the cold exhausted, finally flung her arms about the last big cedar, a stalwart 40-footer, on whose crest had been unfurled an American flag. The fourteen choppers descended on the tree, but a revitalized Carrie Nation warded them off momentarily. A State trooper, a sheriff and a policeman with difficulty at last disentwined her fingers from around the tree and bore her away while the remaining cedar toppled under vigorous blows.

MECHANIC IS HIRED FOR SCHOOL REPAIRS

Fairfax County Board Names H. H. Huffman for Post at $141 Monthly.

HEALTH UNIT REPORTS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The Fairfax County School Board met in regular monthly session yesterday at the courthouse and, after considering recommendations of its subcommittee on the employment of a full time school mechanic, decided in favor of H. H. Huffman, of Spring Hill, Va., at a monthly wage of $141. Huffman is to furnish all tools and his own truck. He asked the board, when a helper is needed to aid him in the most difficult jobs, to employ his son. The board empowered Superintendent of Schools Wilber T. Woodson to employ a helper at such times as necessary. The school teachers of the county, school leagues and such other organizations will be requested to notify the superintendent of schools of any repairs that are needed, instead of the local school trustees as has been done in previous years.

A letter was read from the executive committee of the Fairfax County Teachers Association asking that the county board reconsider its proposed budget relative to teachers' salaries for next year and to provide increases in salary based on efficiency, experience, qualifications and type of teachers' certificates instead of the flat increase of $2 per month a year for five years as proposed. The matter was discussed by the board but no action was taken.

The State compulsory vaccination law in regard to school children was read and it was stated that parents must have at least five days' notice. Then if they refuse to have their child vaccinated the law states that they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine. The board granted Superintendent Woodson authority to exclude any child from school after such notice had been given to the parent or guardian.

The request of the Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, to use the Fairfax School to show a free motion picture of the work of the school they help maintain in Canton, Ohio, was referred to the Fairfax town school board.

A delegation from the Franconia School neighborhood appeared before the board and explained conditions now existing at the school at Franconia, which contains two rooms. They asked for consolidation of some of the schools in that neighborhood and asked that a new school be constructed there. They pointed out the lack of modern school facilities in Mount Vernon district. A committee composed of John T. Haislip, Vernon Lynch and Herbert Williams was appointed to investigate conditions and to make a report to the full school board.

The electric power lines have been extended past the Forestville School and the newly employed school mechanic was instructed to investigate the necessity of buying a new water pump and the cost of installation of electric lights in the schoolhouse.

The board authorized payment of bills for the past month, amounting to $5,516.35.

Warner Turley, sentenced to five years in State penitentiary for criminal assault, was removed from county jail yesterday by the State authorities.

The Junior League at Groveton will hold a business meeting this afternoon in the schoolhouse there and the Rachael Walker Circle of King's Daughters will hold a regular meeting at Groveton tonight.

The Junior League at Andrew Chapel will hold a meeting this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berry will be the hosts to the executive committee of the Andrew Chapel Young Peoples Missionary Society tonight at their home.

Three cases of scarlet fever were found and 8 cases of other diseases were found. Fifteen throat cultures were made, 8 smallpox vaccinations made and 50 toxin antitoxin treatments given; 1 tuberculosis patient was found and sent to a sanatorium; 250 dental dental cases were treated; 35 persons' eyes examined and 63 tonsil and adenoid patients were treated; 560 pupils were examined by the nurse and doctor, of which 62 pupils were found to be overweight and 260 with minor defects; 112 defects were corrected, 28 homes were visited during the month; 75 persons were referred to clinics or hospitals, and 3 lectures were made by the staff. Dr. Feagans was named by the county board of supervisors as the county jail physician.

The Boy Scout troop at Annandale will observe the scout birthday anniversary tomorrow night in the school auditorium. A demonstration of first-aid work will be given by Raymond Lynch, William Adkins, Oliver Beasley, Edwin Lynch, Deming Lewis and Wilbur Dean.

Delegate Leon L. Freeman will discuss county firemen's insurance with representatives of the companies.

Hall Not to Make Race in Virginia

Loudoun County Man Will Not Seek Election to Congress.

Word was received from Richmond last night that Wilbur C. Hall, member of the General Assembly from Loudoun County, Va., who has frequently been mentioned as a candidate as representative from the Eighth Congressional District, will not enter the primary to be held early in August.

"I could not become an active candidate without a serious neglect of my official duties in the General Assembly and a lessened advocacy of measures which I am sponsoring at this session," he stated.

With Mr. Hall out of the running, there are but two candidates in the field, State Senator Frank L. Ball, from Arlington County, and Judge Howard W. Smith, of the sixteenth judicial circuit, comprising Alexandria City, Fairfax, Prince William and Arlington Counties.

Rumors have it that Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's Attorney of Arlington County, will enter the race, but as yet he has made no definite statement.

R. Walton Moore, incumbent, has announced that he will not be an aspirant to succeed himself.

STATE MOTHERS' AID ADVANTAGES LISTED

Virginia Children's Bureau Head Presents Data on Purposes of Plan.

ADVOCATED BY POLLARD

Richmond, Va., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—The purposes and usefulness of State-given mothers' aid, which Gov. Pollard approved and which is being investigated for the General Assembly, are explained in a statement by Miss Emily Dinwiddie, director of the children's bureau of the State department of public welfare.

Virginia has had a mothers' aid law since 1922, Miss Dinwiddie explained, authorizing any county or city to make appropriations for this purpose, but the act is not mandatory. There is also a permissive statute whereby the State, if it approves the expenditures of counties and cities for mothers' allowances, shall reimburse the counties and cities, provided that the State has appropriated such funds.

In addition to the advantage socially of allowing children to remain with their parents, Miss Dinwiddie declared, such a course is more economical than care in public institutions. Children's homes which have undertaken exact accounting have found, she said, that figuring interest on capital invested in buildings and grounds, plus maintenance costs, that they were spending much more than would be necessary to subsidize the mothers and allow them to keep their children.

Quoting the experience of the Philadelphia Children's Bureau, Miss Dinwiddie said that a number of instances were brought to light in which children from one family were being cared for in two or three institutions, the total cost running $3,000 and more a year for each family. "Yet, in each instance cited," she stated, "there was a mother at home with other children, and in each such instance she had the responsibility of the support of these remaining children.

"The average wage-earner's annual family income in the United States is less than $1,500. It seems unreasonable for a woman to be doing washing or scrubbing floors to earn mere support for herself and a child or two, while each of her three or four other children is having expended on it a sum large enough to enable her to support the entire family in her own home under a mother's care."

An essential part of proper mothers' assistance work is careful investigation and competent administration, and without this the fund could be wasteful and become a demoralizing form of indiscriminate relief, squandering money and doing more harm than good, she pointed out.

The children's bureau, Miss Dinwiddie said, finds encouragement in the fact that private agencies as well as those of the public are following the new trend of maintaining children in their own homes, keeping families together instead of separating them. Juvenile and domestic relations courts, she stated, in Virginia are giving an important mothers' aid service of their own, last year collecting nearly $500,000 for the support of families which otherwise would have been dependent on charity.

New York, Feb. 6 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mrs. Gloria Gould Bishop, daughter of the late George Jay Gould, and former wife of Henry Alfred Bishop, jr., and Walter Macfarlane Barker, 31, of this city, wee married today. The ceremony was performed by Magistrate Bernard J. Douras in his chambers in the East Fifty-seventh Street Court.

Immediately after the ceremony, it was said, the couple went to the Pennsylvania Station and took a train for Palm Beach, Fla., where they will spend their honeymoon.

Diving Bell 'Saves' Submarine's Crew

Officers Consider Device "Most Satisfactory" in Operation.

Aboard U. S. S. Falcon, off Key West, Fla., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—The crew of the submarine S-4 was brought to the surface of the Gulf of Mexico today in a diving bell designed by the Navy Department. The bell, similar to the O'Rourke bell, successfully operated last week, brought up the men from a depth of 70 feet.

The preliminary test with the Navy Department's apparatus, which was conducted in smooth water, was considered "most satisfactory" by officers of the expedition.

In the operation today the bell was lowered over the motor hatch of the submarine by the Falcon, and the hatch opened by members of the submarine crew. The men entered the bell and were lifted to the surface to be taken aboard the Falcon.

1,000 Cigarettes Made For Each Inhabitant

(Associated Press.)

Almost 1,000 cigarettes for each man, woman and child in the United States were taken from bond during the 1929 calendar year. Figures made public by the Internal Revenue Bureau showed that the 119,049,105,104 taken from bond last year were 13,122,339,453 more than during 1928.

At an average cost of 13 cents for each package of 20, the 1929 cigarette bill would have taken $780,000,000 out of the pockets of the smokers.

In contrast, however, the amount of snuff taken out of bond last year dropped 619,000 pounds as compared with the previous year, the total production amounting to 40,036,914 pounds. The production of playing cards dropped approximately 400,000 packs.

Two Are Arrested, Sent to Gallinger

One Man Picked Up by Police Has $567 and Razor in His Pocket.

Two men, one of whom had in his pockets a razor and more than $500 in cash, were arrested last night by detective sergeants and were sent to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

James William Quinn, 46 years old, of C street near First street northeast, walked in to the Detective Bureau to complain about being followed by officers of the Veterans' Bureau, and about being harassed by people rapping on the walls of his bedroom. He was taken into custody by Detective Sergts. Kuehling and Fihelly.

The other man was picked up on the streets by Detective Sergt. Frank Alligood when his gesticulations and mutterings drew the policeman's attention. He was unable to give a name or address. He had $567 and a razor on him, and likewise was sent to Gallinger.

Holdup Is Staged Close to Precinct

Downtown Feed Store Is Robbed by Armed Bandit Pair.

Less than two blocks from First Precinct Station, with scores of persons passing, two unmasked men, brandishing revolvers, staged a daring holdup at the establishment of William James & Son, co ' and feed firm, at 306 Tenth street northwest, yesterday afternoon.

William James, head of the company, was preparing to close the doors when the two men, resembling in youthful appearance and their fashionable attire the desperadoes described as robbers of a string of Sanitary Grocery Co. stores during recent weeks, sauntered into the office and flashed weapons.

Mr. James told Detective Sergts. Thomas Malley and C. W. Mansfield, whom he summoned by telephone, that the pair forced him behind a counter and made him open the cash drawer, which yielded an undetermined amount of money. He said the men pocketed the loot, dashed out the door and disappeared, apparently in a waiting automobile.

wants a guard over there and thinks he needs it, if he will permit me I will furnish him a company of South Carolinians who will come up here and guard him and will guarantee him that no man or woman shall cross the threshhold of the White House or even enter the gates of his grounds except by his permission.

"It does not make any difference what they may think of him or what I may think of him, no man or

"We know that King Pratt is no good. We have known that for some time, so if the President will permit I will have these brave, fearless South Carolina Americans put on guard and he can live without fear.

"This man Hoover received the largest vote for President that any man has ever received for that office, and yet he trembles in the White House. Think of Andy Jackson calling for help. Think of Teddy Roosevelt calling for help. Crime is rampant in Washington, while Pratt sits serenely on his throne and murder, rape, arson and other crimes are on the increase."

Senator Blease said he believed that President Hoover, in selecting Gen. Crosby, was inspired by the suggestion of Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, that Gen. Smedley Butler be employed to clean up the National Capital.

"Some things about Gen. Smedley Butler I do not like," Senator Blease said. "One of them is going into a man's house, taking a drink with him and going out and telling about it. I never have just exactly understood how he got that low down. There must have been something curious in the liquor he was drinking to make him so far forget the duties of a gentleman.

"However, I want to see Mr. Hoover appoint the very best, and I do not care whether he takes him from the bench or calls him out of the Army or where he gets him.

"I made the remark then that when some man turns up his nose at this situation, when some man says there is nothing in it, when his daughter comes home drunk or maybe in a condition worse than death itself or comes home dead, or when his boy comes home in a similar condition, then he will stop and begin to think that there must be something.

"Think of dives running here and these girls going to them and being treated as they have been treated. What is Pratt doing? Ask the Chinese what Pratt is doing?"

H. Ralph Burton, member of the law firm of McLanahan & Burton, and counsel for the Daughters of the American Revolution, last night made public a letter he had written to Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, protesting against President Hoover's appointment of Maj. Gen. Crosby as a District Commissioner on the ground that the choice should be from civilian ranks.

COUNTY POLICE SEEK ALLEGED ATTACKER

Montgomery Woman Says Man Assaulted Her in Kitchen.

Montgomery County Police are searching for the man who is alleged to have attacked Mrs. F. C. Hett, 28 years old, of Brookeville, Md., while she was alone in the kitchen of her home yesterday. The woman was uninjured, except for blue marks on her wrists which she told police had been made by her assailant. The man became frightened and ran when she screamed, she said.

Mrs. Hett told Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley that she had been talking on the telephone and had returned to her kitchen to find the man there. As she entered the room he caught hold of her wrists, she said, but she managed to elude his grasp. She screamed for help, and the man turned and ran from the house. Her screams were not heard by the neighbors.

Mrs. Hett called Mrs. R. F. Hines, of Olney, who went to the house with her husband. The Hineses called police Mrs. Hett could not describe the man, except to say that he wore a blue overcoat and gray cap.

SCOUTS' EVENT PLANNED

Montgomery County Boy Scouts will hold a celebration of the anniversary of the founding of Scouting February 15 at Rockville under the auspices of the Montgomery County Council of the Boy Scouts of America. First-aid and other Scouting exhibitions will be given by the 200 boys belonging to the twelve troops of the county.

Plans for the celebration were discussed at a meeting of the committee in charge Wednesday night, which includes Philip W. Gates, chairman; William F. Prettyman and Harold C. Smith. The American Red Cross and the Army Air Corps will assist in the celebration and it is probable that there will be at least one airplane.

In addition to the outdoor exercises, it is expected that an indoor meeting will be held in the circuit courtroom at which addresses will be made by prominent men and women.

There were 549 instruments recorded in the circuit court at Rockville in the month of January, according to the report of Preston B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court. These were classified as follows: One hundred and forty-eight deeds, 150 mortgages, 91 trusts and 160 bills of sale.

The Montgomery County Civic Federation will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Woodside School, Georgia avenue and B street, Woodside, Md., O. M. Kile, corresponding secretary, announced yesterday.

The fifty-seventh annual Convention of Farmers will be held in the Sherwood High School at Sandy Spring tomorrow. The morning session will begin at 10 o'clock.

Roland Rogers, of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, through the efforts of County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, will address the meeting. He will talk on the proposed system of parks and roads in the southern end of the county. The talk will be illustrated with maps showing the outlines of the improvements. Commissioner Shaw obtained the services of Mr. Rogers when Senator Millard Tydings found that he could not attend the meeting as he had planned.

Austin Powell and Charles Hines will discuss the "Electrification of Farms;" Miss Lavinia Engle, president of the League of Women Voters, will speak on "Schools," and Prof. K. A. Clark, of the Maryland Experiment Station, will speak on the beef cattle outlook. A general discussion will follow the speeches.

Virginian Found Dead Aboard Norfolk Boat

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—A man, who police have identified through papers found in his pockets as Fred W. Richardson, of Portsmouth, Va., was found dead in his stateroom on the steamship State of Maryland as it was preparing to sail for Norfolk early today.

Charles Smyrk, ticket agent, received no answer when he knocked on the door of the cabin occupied by Richardson during his rounds collecting tickets. He unlocked the door and found the man, fully clothed, lying in his bunk, dead. There was nothing to indicate that death was not from natural causes. A coroner is investigating.

West Virginia Woman Is Seriously Burned

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Winton Unger had a narrow escape from death here when her dress caught fire as she passed an open range in her home and quickly enveloped her in flames.

A housekeeper happened to note her danger, rushed in and smothered the flames with a towel. Mrs. Unger was seriously, but it is believed, not fatally burned.

PSITTACOSIS SERUM TO BE GIVEN STOKES

Injection From Blood of Recovering Victims May Save Scientist's Life.

KANSAS HIT BY MALADY

Baltimore, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Serum developed by the State health department from the blood of persons who have practically recovered from psittacosis will be resorted to in an attempt to save the life of Dr. William Royal Stokes, chief of the Bureau of Bacteriological Diseases, who is seriously ill from the parrot fever.

The serum is being made from blood of three persons at Annapolis, where the disease first appeared in the United States, health authorities believing that persons having suffered from the fever are immune thereafter. The disease at Annapolis was diagnosed definitely as the parrot fever by Federal and State health authorities.

Ill for Several Days.

Dr. Stokes became ill several days ago after having taken an active part in attempting to combat the spread of the fever in the State. In his work he handled many of the birds believed infected with the disease, both live ones and those which had died, in an effort to gain definite knowledge of the malady.

The injection will be given the official in a day or two, as soon as it is completed. It is said by health officials here that it will be the first time immunized blood has been obtainable for the making of a serum, which may be effective in combating the fever, for which no definite treatment has been evolved.

Two Cases in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Kans., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Two cases of psittacosis, or parrot fever, have been diagnosed here, Dr. S. D. Henry, health director here, announced today. The victims are Mrs. R. W. Uhl, 41 and her mother, Mrs. C. C. Whitts.

Mrs. Uhl is in a serious condition in a hospital. Her mother, who suffered a slight attack of the disease, was reported on her way to recovery. The women had contact with two parakeets purchased from a Kansas City bird store, which obtained the "love birds" through a St. Louis firm from a dealer in Los Angeles, presumably an importer.

She also leaves two brothers and one sister, Howard Powell, of Staunton; Richard Powell, of Nelson County, and Mrs. Charles Powell, of Schuyler, Va.

MARYLAND GRANTS BUS LINE FRANCHISE

Washington Rapid Transit Will Operate Route to Baltimore.

SEVERAL BIDDERS HEARD

The Washington Rapid Transit Co. yesterday was given the franchise for a bus line from Washington to Baltimore via Silver Spring, Wheaton, Sandy Spring, Ashton and Ellicott City, with a spur line from Norbeck to Rockville, which formerly was held by the Intercity Bus Co. The franchise was granted after a hearing at which complaints against the service of the Intercity Co. were heard.

The Intercity company has been operated by receivers appointed last Tuesday, when the company failed to function in accordance with its schedule.

Several applicants asked for the franchise, including Leonard C. Burns, of Olney, the original operator of a line from Ashton and Olney through Sandy Spring to Washington and also from Ellicott City. The Intercity Bus Terminal Co., Inc., said to be a holding company for the defunct line, and George N. Michael were refused permission to operate routes over the same territory.

The hearing was called by the Maryland Public Service Commission when a number of complaints were made that the company was not operating in accordance with its schedules and the commission directed the company to show cause why its permits should not be revoked.

COTTON-ACRE SLASH OF 6,000,000 SOUGHT

Educational Campaign for Limiting of 1930 Crop Mapped at Meeting.

40,000,000 ACRES LIMIT

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Determination to hold the 1930 cotton acreage below 40,000,000 acres was expressed here today by the cotton acreage reduction committee of the American Cotton Cooperative Association.

To this end an educational campaign will be launched throughout the South to cut the 193 acreage by 6,000,000 acres below that of 1929. Action by the committee followed an address by Carl Williams, cotton representative of the Federal Farm Board, who told the cotton men that an excess of this acreage would mean crossing the danger line.

Unless cotton acreage is reduced, Mr. Williams said, the South would continue to suffer agricultural depression and would be threatened with economic catastrophe. He suggested that cotton be planted only on land that has shown a crop profit over a five-year period.

The committee plans to bring the message of acreage reduction to the individual farmers through the agricultural extension services in each Southern State, agricultural leaders, colleges and banks.

Dr. Eric Englung, of the United States Department of Agriculture, told the Southern agricultural workers there was little likelihood of taxation on farm property being reduced in the United States. He forecast an increase in taxation during the next few years because of modern demands of farmers.

"Taxes on farm property as a whole may be expected to increase for some time, though the rate of increase will be materially under the average rate for the past fifteen years," he said.

"The demand of citizens for expensive improvements and public services make a decline in taxes unlikely unless the States provide a taxation system for revenue from other sources."

Dr. Carlos G. Davila, Chilean Ambassador at Washington, arrived to address the agriculturalists at tonight's banquet.

THERE MUST BE A JURY.

Chairman Wickersham and Dean Pound, of the National Commission on Law Enforcement, have undertaken to defend their recommendation that petty violations of the prohibition law be disposed of without jury trials. The hearing on the bill which would put the commission's plan into effect has become a debate on constitutional law, with eminent authorities on each side. Under the circumstances it is well to ask if the Constitution itself has been fully consulted.

Dean Pound has taken the position that the Constitution provides for trial by jury only in case of infamous crimes. Petty crimes, he says, can be legally tried without a jury. Following this line of reasoning, the commission would provide for hearings before United States commissioners in all cases of petty violation of the liquor laws. Jury trials would be denied except when the defendant took exception to recommendations of the commissioner that he be found guilty by the court.

The whole argument of constitutionality seems to have turned on the Bill of Rights, in which it is provided that "no person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous, crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury." Article VI also provides that "in all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed." These references of trial by jury are construed as applying only to infamous crimes.

But Article III, section 2, specifically says: "The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury." Has Mr. Wickersham read that clause? What does Dean Pound think of it?

Philander Knox took the exalted position of Secretary of State without remembering that the Constitution forbade him to receive the emoluments of that office. He had been a member of Congress when the salary of department heads was increased. Can it be that the crime commission is not entirely familiar with the grand old document?

CONGRESS AND PARLIAMENT.

Representative Davenport recently suggested that the Tariff Commission be authorized to recommend tariff revisions to the President, who would transmit them to Congress, the revisions to become effective if not disapproved by Congress within a specified time. Representative Luce followed and supported Mr. Davenport. The proposal to permit a commission to make the tariff is not likely to go far. Congress is most jealous of its authority in this respect. But the Luce speech drew an interesting comparison between the activities of Congress and the British Parliament which, in its general application, is worthy of attention.

In the Sixty-fifth Congress committees of the House reported 900 bills. In the Seventieth Congress, committees of the House reported 2,625 bills. Not one in ten of these bills, said Mr. Luce, belonged in the Congress of the United States. Most of them had to do with matters fit for a State Legislature or, in the case of the District, of a city council. Congress is burdened with such a multitude of trivialities and administrative detail that for the most part it can not devote its full attention to important national questions.

Mr. Luce exhibited a bound volume containing the public general acts enacted by Parliament in the session covering parts of 1928 and 1929. It contained 900 pages, 781 of which were devoted to acts proper. The volume weighed 2 pounds, 14 ounces. It contained two long acts that took up 476 pages and 37 shorter acts that took up 305 pages. He also exhibited a volume containing the public acts of the Seventieth Congress. This volume represented the work of two years, but Parliament sits half again as many hours in the day as Congress and the actual working time of any one Parliament is not very much less than that of a Congress. The public acts of the Seventieth Congress were contained in 1,700 pages, and there were 715 chapters, as against the 39 in the English volume. A page in the American volume was half again as large as a page in the English volume and the American book was three times as heavy as the British. A single Congress dealt with more than eighteen times as many subjects as a single British Parliament, and the recording of its accomplishments required nearly twice as many pages, each of which was one and one-half times as large. The comparison becomes the more striking when one considers that Parliament legislates for all of Great Britain, while 48 State Legislatures supplement the laws of Congress.

Under the British system of government the various departments have broad powers to issue regulations or orders. Certain orders become effective on issue. Others must be laid before Parliament and become operative in 40 days if no objection is raised meanwhile. Some must be confirmed by special resolution of both houses, and some become effective unless an authorized body interposes an objection. A small class of orders require affirmative action of Parliament before they become operative. The effect of this system is that Parliament is spared consideration of the great volume of petty detail. It concerns itself with more important matters.

Representative Luce contended that this is the road which Congress must travel if it desires to escape from the morass of petty legislation.

That Congress is too much concerned with detail can not be disputed. Conscientious legislators can not hope to devote to matters of policy the attention they deserve. Nor do the numerous pieces of minor legislation receive proper consideration. But what is to be done? Congress has shown no disposition to enlarge the authority of executive departments. The tendency seems to be quite the other way.

THE LAND OF VIOLENCE.

Hopes for a Mexican administration based on law instead of violence and intrigue were jarred when President Pascual Ortiz Rubio was shot in the jaw on the day of his inauguration. A plot to assassinate the new president and his entire cabinet, including retiring President Portes Gil, was detected some time ago, and the police of Mexico City were on the alert. The assailant, Daniel Flroes, is a follower of Jose Vasconcelos.

In his inaugural address President Ortiz Rubio declared that the revolution had brought "its own morals, its own justice, its own policies, in short, its own conception of life," and promised that his administration would be "eminently revolutionary." Two hours later a young man, who was apparently also imbued with revolutionary ideas, showered the presidential automobile with bullets. The irony of this situation is not lost upon the outside world, which takes note of the new president's ambitious plans for reducing the infant death rate and eliminating illiteracy and unemployment.

Any man who assumes the Presidency of Mexico takes his life in his hands. Warned by the experience of many years, the government took every precaution to protect the new president from assassins. Soldiers and guards patrolled every line of march. There was little chance that any assassin could make an attack and escape with his life. Nevertheless an attack was made. This grim determination to upset the Ortiz Rubio regime forebodes further trouble. Plutarco Calles was absent from the inaugural ceremonies, probably because of the threats against his life.

Mexico is fortunate indeed that the president's wound is not serious. Had it been fatal, chaos might have been the result. The government has survived the assassination of one president and a revolution in the interregnum. The Vasconcelistas have avowed their intention to start a revolution. Should the government be left again without a chief executive a long period of violence would ensue. The Vasconcelos party is very strong, and most of its members honestly believe that their candidate was kept out of Chapultepec by fraud and violence.

THE STOLEN-PROPERTY BILL.

The national stolen-property bill, passed by the House this week, may encounter opposition in the Senate. Those whose counsel was sought in hearings on the measure were unanimous in their approval. Unquestionably the "fence," or disposer of stolen goods, against whom the bill was drawn, is the master cog in the crime machine. Stolen property is worth nothing to the thief until it is disposed of, and the fence fulfills the function of jobber of such merchandise. The business is thoroughly organized. Stolen merchandise usually is shipped hundreds of miles for disposition, making it difficult for State authorities to prosecute either the thief or his sales agent. It is estimated that this thief system costs the country upward of $500,000,000 annually.

The bill passed by the House is predicated on the interstate commerce clause. It provides that whoever shall send or transport in interstate commerce goods valued at more than $300, known to be stolen, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10,000 or by imprisonment for not more than 10 years, or both. Those who buy, receive, possess, conceal or sell such property, and those who transport or handle in any way such property under suspicious circumstances without making reasonable inquiry in good faith to ascertain whether or not they have been stolen, would be subject to similar penalties.

Under the Harrison act, the Government is charged with the duty of preventing traffic in narcotics. The Mann act compels it to act as policeman against white slavery. The Dyer act charges the Government with preventing interstate traffic in stolen automobiles, and the Volstead act has made necessary the setting up of a Federal police force to cope with the liquor problem. The stolen property law would call for additional Federal police.

COAST GUARD'S FINE WORK.

The Coast Guard has been one of the "goats" of prohibition. In its customary efficient fashion it has assumed the task of attempting to prevent the flow of liquor across the borders. From time to time rum-runners have been killed or injured, and it is inevitable that occasionally an innocent bystander should stop a bullet fired in the interest of law enforcement. The Coast Guard has been criticized severely for the accidents that have occurred, and the public seems sometimes to have forgotten that suppression of smuggling is but one of the duties of the Coast Guard.

Last year was a record-breaker for the Coast Guard. More lives were saved, more persons were rescued from peril, and more ships of greater value were assisted in emergencies than in any other year of the service's history. Persons saved or rescued from peril numbered 4,375, a figure 392 in excess of that of the preceding year. Assistance involving the saving of life or property, or both, was rendered in 9,286 instances, as compared with 6,856 instances in the previous year. The value of vessels assisted, including their cargoes, was practically $50,000,000, slightly more than $9,500,000 in excess of last year's record.

While the Coast Guard was patrolling the 10,000-odd miles of shoreline to prevent smuggling, it did not neglect the primary duties for which it was created. Those who would criticize the Coast Guard for its prohibition activities should be silenced by its record for humanitarian service.

A SUBMARINE DEVICE.

Since the tragic sinking of the submarine S-4 off Provincetown, Mass., on December 17, 1927, the Navy Department has been seeking to perfect means for preventing similar tragedies. The most recent invention by the Navy is a device which permits men in a submarine beneath the sea to carry on instantaneous communication with rescuers on the surface. The device is known as the "undersea speaker."

All of the apparatus is carried on the surface ship, and can be lowered to the disabled submarine without the use of divers. The equipment is lowered to the submarine by a cable, and by means of an electro-magnet it becomes attached to the hull, which acts as a diaphragm and sound conductor, carrying any sound made within the submarine to the ears of the rescue party on the surface. By the turn of a switch on the surface vessel the equipment acts as a sender, carrying to an audible degree the voices of the rescue party to all sections of the undersea boat.

After a few minor improvements have been made the device will be installed on all submarine rescue vessels and on submarine tenders.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

By WILLIS FLETCHER JOHNSON,
In the Boston Transcript.

It might be accounted passing strange, if indeed anything were strange in these days of forgetfulness and error, that in all that is being said pro and contra over the proposal to have "The Star-Spangled Banner" made by act of Congress our official national anthem, the most significant incident in the history of that song—that is, of its music—is almost entirely overlooked. I refer to the incident which first made that air familiar to the American public, as that in which "The Boston Patriotic Song" was sung. That occurred more than sixteen years before Francis Scott Key wrote his memorable lyric.

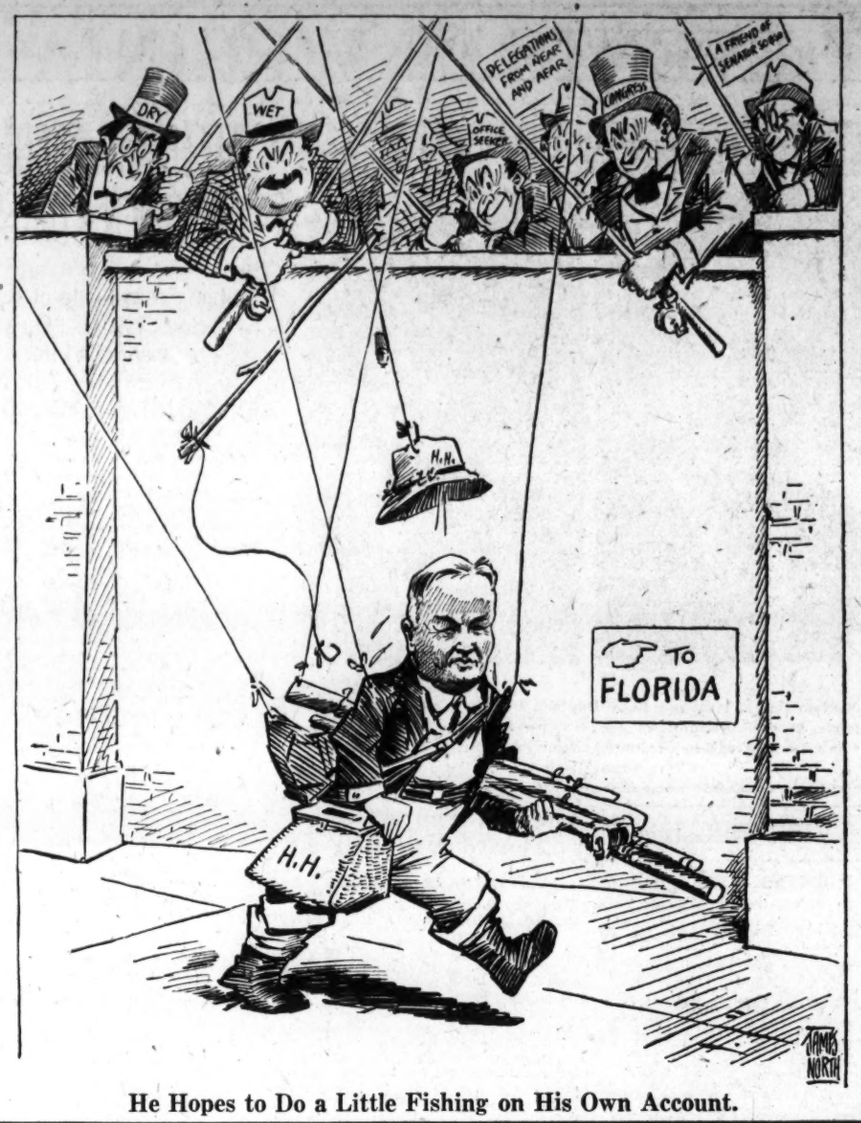
In still earlier years, probably before or during the Revolution, the piece was known, but chiefly in taverns, army camps and "stag parties," the original words not being suitable in taste or morals for more general use. Whether it had been composed by John Stafford Smith or by Dr. Samuel Arnold does not seem to be entirely clear. But one of those English composers, who were contemporaries in the eighteenth century, wrote it for the words of a somewhat bawdy drinking song, for the use of the Anacreon Society of London, a company of choice revelers. It was called by the first words of the song, "To Anacreon in Heaven," and was composed about 1770 or a little later, certainly before 1776, and is supposed to have been introduced into this country by British army officers of convivial tastes, not improbably by "Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne when he came over to aid—and bedevil—Gen. Gage in Boston. The drinking song never became popular here. But the stirring air did, and it was soon adopted by several lodges of Freemasons for a Masonic song beginning "To Old Hiram in Heaven," and thus it was "introduced to good society." The precise date of that Masonic use of it does not seem to be known, but it was published in a volume, "Selection of Masonic Songs," in 1802, at which date it had obviously been well known for many years.

It was thus that it became known to Robert Treat Paine. At the end of Washington's administration and the beginning of John Adams', patriotic passions rose high, over the hostile conduct of the French Directory. Charles Cotesworth Pinckney replied to Talleyrand's request for a bribe with his immortal epigram of defiance, "Not one cent for tribute, but millions for defense!" And by the summer of 1798 we were engaged in our undeclared war with France. It was then that Robert Treat Paine made use of this music for his song, entitled "Adams and Liberty," beginning:

Ye Sons of Columbia, who bravely have fought
For those rights that unstain'd from your sires had descended
May you long taste the blessings your valor has bought,
And your sons reap the soil which their fathers defended!
Mid the reign of mild peace
May your nations increase,
With the Glory of Rome and the Wisdom of Greece,
And ne'er may the Sons of Columbia be slaves,
While the earth bears a plant, or the sea rolls its waves.!

This was first published in one of the "broadsides" which were popular in those days, without the name of the author. This publication was made in the summer of 1798, and the song quickly attained wide popularity among all the supporters of the administration, and indeed pretty generally throughout the fifteen States. One of the stanzas of the song was decidedly critical of the French Directory, and for that reason it was not much liked by the extreme followers of Jefferson in the "Gallican" party. But affairs had come to such a crisis that there were few who held out against the administration, and the song was for a couple of years truly a national anthem. It was first called "The Boston Patriotic Song" because of its origin in that city, and partly, no doubt, because resentment against France was strongest in Boston and New England. But that subcaption soon lapsed, and the composition was known simply as "Adams and Liberty."

In our second war with Great Britain Paine's song was obviously inappropriate and was not used, excepting to a limited extent and then, of course, with the reference to France omitted. But it was well remembered and the music was popular. Obviously, Francis Scott Key was familiar with it, for as he watched the futile attack upon Fort McHenry he composed his own lyric in precisely the same meter, as if intended to be sung to that tune.



He Hopes to Do a Little Fishing on His Own Account.

JUST FOLKS

FELLOWSHIP.

Oh, let me walk the ways of time with open eyes to see
The hopes and aims and cares of men and all that has to be.
Though fain am I for laughter gay
let me grow wise in pain
And face the world just as it is with all its loss and gain,
For life's a blend of weal and woe, a draught of good and bad
And I would know what makes man gay and sense what makes him sad.

I would not keep myself aloof and tread a narrow way,
I would not live the timid life that dreads the rainy day,
The human race has much to bear.
For all who come to birth
The days will spill their common freight of heartache and of mirth.
And I would be fit company for those
I chance to meet—
An understanding comrade for both bitter and the sweet.

He counsels best who knows the road,
he comforts most whose heart Remembers all its bygone griefs and still can feel their smart.
Who thinks of men as they should be grows blind to many a scar,
But deeper understanding sees and knows us as we are.
And while I walk the ways of men, their fellowship I'd keep And never ask them not to laugh or bid them not to weep.

Where Decent Sportsmen Hunt, a Quail On the Ground Is Safe.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE first men to penetrate and settle the West were tough adventurers who broke most of the Ten Commandments without compunction and used guns to settle their disputes.

There were no petty thieves among them, however, and doors were not locked.

Why was property safe without law's protection?

Because the standard of honor established by common consent made thieving an abomination and the thief an outcast.

Men respected an unwritten law to keep the respect of their neighbors.

The young men who compose the regular army of the United States are a little more adventurous, a little rougher and a little less respectful of conventional rules than men outside the Army.

Yet no one of them will use a weapon to settle a personal dispute and there is no thieving among them.

Do you know the explanation?

They fight fairly and respect one another's property because they must honor the ancient code of the service or forfeit the respect of every man in uniform.

What is more, the man who enters the service without acquaintance with honor, and at first respects the code solely because he is afraid to violate it, in time becomes a partizan of decency and is proud of the standard he has made his own.

That is the history of morality—a standard suggested by necessity, adopted as a mutual protection, and eventually respected as a thing right and decent in itself.

And such standards with or without the support of law, are the greatest force in civilization because they define the measure of decency required to win public respect.

No matter how rough the environment, men conform to local standards of decency to escape public scorn.

The "born gentleman" behaves himself because he absorbed his standards from an environment that scorned all things low and vile.

What further argument is necessary to reveal the cause of America's lawlessness?

If children are taught standards of honor in school and in their homes, they will be decent to escape the contempt of their companions, and eventually will be proud of decency for its own sake.

Laws are for the lawless—for those who can be indecent without loss of self-respect.

Rules against cheating aren't necessary for the kind of people who have been taught to despise cheats.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

COL. RUPPERT REPLIES TO THAT BABE RUTH LETTER.

Mr. George Herman Ruth,
Miami, Fla.

Dear Sir: Your interesting letter of recent date has been received and placed on file. I am sending the contract back unchanged, and the only question in my mind is how long it can stand the constant travel through the mails. By the way, how do we stand now in the matter of returning this contract? Have I sent it back to you more times than you have sent it to me or are we even now? If I am correct you had it twice and I have had it three times, in which case I must get it back once more.

* * * *

I can't tell you how glad I am to get these letters with the contract inclosed, as it makes much wonderful publicity. Without it I don't know what we could do to keep the Yanks and you in the newspapers in the off season when baseball can be so easily forgotten. This winter, with the naval parley and the Prince Humbert wedding and Chicago's bankruptcy all getting page one attention, you and I had a peculiarly difficult problem, which I am happy to say your have done so much to solve.

* * * *

We all enjoyed your joke about quitting baseball unless you got what you demand. I read it to Barrow and the boys and they had a hearty laugh. You're a scream, George. How do you humorous writers think up such funny things to say?

Your bread and butter crack was good, too. I mean the part where you said you could afford to quit, as you had enough bread and butter in your home to last you the rest of your life if you never touched another baseball. Knowing your appetite, George, I was a little astonished at that statement and I assume you are just exaggerating.

While your letter was all in good fun and very laughable, there was one thing that puzzled me. That was where you said you had $150,000 in the Bank of Manhattan and Equitable Assurance Co. which gave you an income of $25,000 a year. Will you confirm this by wire? If there is no mistake I am going to transfer all my funds to these institutions, as the best my bank will give me on $150,000 is 4 per cent, or $6,000 a year. If you have a private arrangement with these banks just say so.

* * * *

Well, Babe, I hope you are having a good time and will not mind writing me all these letters and sending back the contract every few days. It is all in good fun. Have a good time and in a few weeks we will get together and fix the salary up all right, as we always do.

Lots of love, JAKE.

IT CAN'T BE TRUE.

Hi: I have just been through a most astonishing experience. Last night I saw a news reel where there was no picture of Prince Humbert and his bride and where only 80 per cent of the pictures were deadly subjects like Australian horse races, greyhound events and Japanese street scenes. I will be all right again presently. MAGNESIA.

Babe Ruth threatens to quit baseball and go with a circus. The moment he gives up baseball he can qualify as the Blue Man.

PARKING PROBLEM.

Pipe Dream of Washington in 1980—No Starlings, No Smoke, No Booze in Embassies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If it is in order, I would like to volunteer my view of what Washington will be 50 years hence in regard to some things which may be overlooked in the consideration of size, wealth and physical attractions.

As I presage it, in 1980 there will be no smoke nuisance; there will be no dirty streets; there will be no starlings. Auto-horn and other noises will be regulated by a department of street harmonics. The Police Department will be manned by college athletes. Owing to the model enforcement of the prohibition law, Washington will be shunned by bootleggers. All the embassies will be bone dry. The last portable schoolhouse will have been deported. The school system will be our country's model. Our schools will be temples of learning, architecturally as well as academically. The street-car and bus lines will be merged, with a 5-cent fare and universal free transfers. Taxi charges will be proportionately moderate. The appointment of all administrative officials will be limited to "actual" residents of the District for ten years next before. Taxation will be on the basis of 60 per cent by the national Government and 40 per cent by the District taxpayers.

J. PAUL HOWARD.

Give Us a Fighting Hymn, Cries Beltsville, in the Spirit of '76.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: They tell us that millions of people have signed a petition to have Congress adopt the "Star-Spangled Banner" as the national anthem. Squash Center forges to the front! Provinciality registers! The fine New England hands of several Seth Parkers at the close of the weekly meeting sign, on the dotted line.

If we are forever to stay at home, and never assume a proud and respectable place among the nations of the earth, "Old Hundred" or the "Star-Spangled Banner," or other civilian neutral or anemic musical product will no doubt serve us; but if, on the other hand, we should incline to the contrary, I ask "in the name of all the gods at once," that we be given an anthem that we can sing, and sing lustily, proudly and with a Spirit of Seventy-six.

If, as history shows, and as Gen. Homer Lea asserts, "No nation was ever born except at the point of the sword, and no nation ever died except at the point of the sword," wouldn't it be prudent to have an anthem stirring and calculated to inspire and simulate a little fighting? For instance, which recruiting office would get the recruits in time of war—the one with a band in front playing the "Star-Spangled Banner," or the one playing "The Marines' Hymn?" I ask to know.

Record-Breaking Airplane Production, With Commercial Planes in the Lead.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In 1929 airplane factories broke all records for production. There was an increase of 27 per cent over the previous year. The value of 6,034 commercial and military planes, produced by 96 manufacturers, was $44,457,300. This represents an increase of 51 per cent in commercial plane production and a decrease of 44 per cent in military plane production. Of the 6,034 planes, 677 were for military use, whereas 5,357 were for commercial use. Airplane motors manufactured during 1929 were valued at $26,495,830, thus bringing the total value of aeronautical production for the year almost up to $100,000,000.

The first factory for manufacturing commercial planes was built about ten years ago, while today there are 96 factories for producing planes, of which five-sixths are for commercial use. It is evident that a business which manufactures $100,000,000 worth of products in a year and makes a 27 per cent gain over the previous year, has prospects for a very bright future.

Gen. Crosby Will Make a Good Commissioner if Hayseed Congressmen Will Let Him Alone.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some people kick at the way the city is run, and yet they seek to deny to the President the right to select men capable, in his opinion, to run it. As he is looked to for good results, why deny him the right to select men who he thinks can do the job? Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, whose military training fits him for the job he has been selected for, no doubt will make a good Commissioner, if hayseed congressmen let him have full control. His Third Cavalry at the inaugural parade as a guard of honor to Mr. Hoover was the talk of all who saw it. When he gets through with the police and firemen they will think they have been through the United States Military Academy or some similar institution, and no doubt some will fail to pass the muster and go back to the farm.

ANTIQUES OF TODAY.

The earliest of motion picture films are already in the category of valuable antiques, says the New York Evening Post. A group of them will shortly be sold at auction in London and probably for good prices, since they represent scenes gone forever but of enduring historical interest. Among them, for instance, are pictures of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee and King Edward's coronation and a considerable number of wartime news reels. It took some time for students and historians to realize that news films are an ideal means of preserving for posterity much that is interesting and important in the present. Today sundry agencies are at work to provide for the preservation of such films, sealing and storing them with scientific care so that the future may watch us at work and play if it cares to. But the earlier films were not taken so seriously and are, therefore, grown scarce. It took a combination of luck and the collector's instinct to bring to market today the living pictures of a generation ago.

CITY COUNCIL HEARS REPORT ON FINANCE

Alexandria Body Decides to Ask Right for Referendum on Gas Plant Sale.

LEGION MEETING TONIGHT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence presented to the city council yesterday the financial report of the city for 1929, and also the report of the city gas works. This latter report showed profits of $37,500, of which amount approximately $10,000 was paid in interest, an equal amount in permanent improvements, and $15,000 was turned into the general fund of the city, leaving a balance on hand of $2,500.

Councilman Ticer introduced a resolution, which was carried, to request Assemblyman J. Fred Birrell to introduce in the State legislature a bill authorizing the City of Alexandria to call for a referendum on the sale of the gas plant, at any time. It was explained that at present the city council has authority to dispose of the gas plant to private interests, should it see fit to do so, but it is considered advisable to take this authority from the council, and provide for its submission to a popular vote should steps looking to the disposal of the plant seem advisable at any time.

Councilman Ticer also introduced a resolution, which was placed on its first reading and held over under the rules, providing for an appropriation of $100,000 for extension of the city gas mains into the newly annexed territory, as well as other sections of the city.

A delegation from the local Anti-tuberculosis Society prepared before the council and requested that the city health department take over the clinics which have been held for the determination of cases of tuberculosis. The request was granted.

The council placed on its final reading and passed the resolution appropriating $12,000 for the purchase of a new 750-gallon pumper for the Potomac Fire Co., officially Truck & Engine Co., No. 2, of the Alexandria Fire Department.

A delegation from the Potomac territory appeared before the council with a request that the ladder truck of No. 1 Fire Co. be transferred to Potomac pending the arrival of new apparatus, but the request was held over for further investigation and consideration. It is understood the new apparatus will be received within ten days, and this will, it is believed, afford ample fire protection to that district.

A representative of Radio Station WJSV, at Mount Vernon Hills, addressed the council and explained what Arlington and Fairfax Counties and the Cities of Fredericksburg and Winchester are doing toward advertising over that station and suggested that Alexandria devote the hours between 5 and 6 o'clock each Monday evening to similar advertising. The matter was taken under consideration.

The council denied the application of an advertising sign company for permits to erect four billboards, two on Mount Vernon avenue just north of Washington avenue; one near the Hunting Creek Bridge and one on Mount Vernon avenue near Hume Station. It is the policy of the city, as explained last night, to limit the erection of these advertising signs as much as possible.

Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at Gadsby's Tavern, with Commander Howard L. Arnold presiding. It has been decided that the post will give a valentine and patriotic dance at Gadsby's Tavern the night of February 21, and on February 28 the post will be host to the high school cadets, with Past Commander W. Milton Glasgow in charge of the entertainment program.

At tonight's meeting the members will hear the details of the post's participation in the Washington's birthday parade. The association has named Commander Arnold as chairman of the legion committee in charge of plans, and he will solicit the participation of other veteran organizations in the parade.

The post will sponsor a benefit musical revue at the Elk's Home the evening of February 27, the revue being given by the Curley Club, of Washington, for the benefit of the local post, and the proceeds will go to the fund being raised by the post for the restoration of Gadsby's Tavern, which has been purchased and presented to the post by a committee of citizens.

The city school board has appointed three new teachers in the recently acquired schools of the annexed territory, as follows: Miss Goldie Mae Day to the faculty of George Mason High School; Miss Genevieve Fearnow, in Mount Vernon School, and Cecile H. Rice, to fill a vacancy at Seminary Colored School. Forms for the school census are expected within a week and the work will be started immediately, by Mrs. John B. Abraham and Mrs. A. M. Sherwood.

The school board has authorized removal of the spiral fire escape from the Mount Vernon school building, with the approval of Fire Chief James M. Duncan and Deputy State Fire Warden J. L. Taylor.

The Friendship Fire Company, which is composed of veterans of the Alexandria Volunteer Fire Department, yesterday accepted an invitation of the George Washington Birthday Association to participate in the parade to be given February 22. The company will have 35 men in line, dressed in the traditional red shirts and black trousers of ancient firemen, and will draw the hand engine which is a replica of the one presented to the company by George Washington, when a member of the old Friendship company.

A large delegation of members of the Alexandria Rotary Club attended the intercity Rotary conclave at the George Washington Hotel in Winchester last night, at which Rotarians from six clubs in this district were represented. The local Rotarians, headed by Dr. S. Nelson Gray, president, left by automobile at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The clubs represented at the conclave, in addition to Alexandria, were Arlington, Leesburg, Front Royal, Woodstock, Warrenton and Culpeper.

A large number of business and professional men of this city have so far failed to take out the required city license, according to Charles H. Callahan, commissioner of revenue, who stated that a penalty of 10 per cent of the fee is automatically added, the time limit having expired on February 1. According to Mr. Callahan a number have filed reports with him, as required by law, but have failed to make application for licenses, based on these reports.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 6.—San Francisco is doing more than its bit in helping Mr. Hoover's program of getting the business wheels turning with normal rapidity again. For no reason that any one seems able to explain satisfactorily the town is undergoing a building boom, plans for new sky-scrapers being announced every few days, despite the fact that the town seems to the visitor chuckfull of buildings, one of them 30 stories high that are not three years old yet.

And this in spite of the crash in the market, in spite of overproduction of raisins, in spite of overproduction of zinc and the closing down of many mines in the contributing territory. The stock market crash hit San Francisco mighty hard. It is a real sporting, gambling town. There are more brokerage offices with stockboards in proportion than in any city of comparable size in the country. And nearly everybody was in the market when the October debacle occurred.

But no steel mill in the East closed down because of cancellation of orders from San Francisco. On the contrary the town has increased its orders for all kinds of building materials. Which is what folks back East naturally expect of Los Angeles, though just a little surprising from San Francisco. But this town is growing like wildfire—growing so fast that if it were not for Los Angeles being in the same State (politically only) it would attract national attention in this period of more or less watchful waiting by business.

BACK around Fresno, in the heart of the raisin country, there is much bitterness among the wholesalers against the Farm Board. They have made no protest to Washington as yet, but their case is on all fours with the grain dealers in whose behalf Julius Barnes protested to Chairman Legge, and for which he was hauled up before the lobby committee and scolded by Senator Caraway.

The grape and raisin dealers say that the Government is virtualy confiscating their business, as it is that of the grain dealers, using the taxes they pay to loan money to the Sun Maid raisin growers.

The desire of the Farm Board, of course, was to encourage this big cooperative, and since the Government advanced $5,000,000 with the promise of $4,000,000 more, the bonds of the cooperative, which had defaulted interest, have advanced from down around 30 to nearly 90. Moreover, the percentage of control of the growers is recovering since Federal aid. With low prices beginning about two years ago, members began to drop out, until the percentage who belonged dropped from around 90 per cent to around 30 per cent. Already, since the Farm Board stepped into the situation, the membership has come up to about 50 per cent.

What the dealers point out, however, is that aside from their own grievance, which they admit is selfish, though they believe their complaint justified, there is the danger of the Farm Board's action encouraging further overproduction.

* * * *

A MAN who directs farming operations on 50,000 acres told the writer that he did not think the present price of raisins could possibly be maintained, but that if it were, by artificial encouragement from Washington, so much additional land would be planted in raising grapes in the next few years that no possible Federal aid could prevent a real crash.

The point is that world production of raisins has been increasing very rapidly, he and others pointed out, much faster than world consumption. It has been caused by the very high price of raisins and grapes generally. Australia, for instance, has pushed her production up from less than 9,500 tons in 1921 to 56,000 tons in 1929. Smyrna has increased her production from 37,000 tons in 1921 to 60,000 in 1929. Spain has also increased, while Russia, which is not on the Department of Agriculture list at all, is now producing about 50,000 tons a year.

California has pushed her raisin production up to about 250,000 tons. Her shipment in 1928, when the price began to slump and the cooperative began to get in trouble, had reached 315,000 tons. Some of the high-cost vineyards have since been plowed up, and dealers say the situation would have been corrected by natural means if the Farm Board had not stepped into the situation. In short, the problem is the same as with wheat, with automobiles, and cotton.

REPORT ON COLLEGE MEASURE IS ADVERSE

Virginia Senate Committee Favors Continuance of Halsey Commission.

ROAD AGREEMENT MADE

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 6.—The Senate schools committee today reported unfavorably on a bill that would establish at the University of Virginia a coordinate college of liberal arts for women, favoring rather a bill to continue the Halsey commission to report in 1932 on a place for the establishment of one at either Harrisonburg, Fredericksburg, Roanoke or Lynchburg.

Meantime, the Senate and the House were reported to have reached an agreement on the matter of roads, as the Senate passed the Holt commission plan for redistributing the gasoline tax among the counties and its roads committee reported favorably the Porter-Rhodes House bill.

The House courts of justice committee, after a long hearing, reported an amended workmen's compensation bill. The amendments are not acceptable, according to J. Vaughan Gary, its sponsor. The amended bill would raise the compensation maximum from $12 to $14; the percentage of weekly salary from 50 to 55 per cent; funeral expenses from $100 to $150; total disability from $4,500 to $5,600; death from $3,600 to $4,200, and decrease the waiting time from ten days to one week.

Oyster Bills on Calendar.

In the Senate the oyster reorganization bills, reported from committee favorably after several bitter clashes, reached the calendar today, and tomorrow are expected to provoke a bitter battle.

The Lesner State-wide automobile drivers' permit bills were advanced to their third reading with the understanding that, if necessary, they would be returned to the amendable stage tomorrow.

First indications of the road agreement came when Senator Holt asked for a suspension of rules, and passed his commission's plan for distributing the tax by unanimous vote. The plan distributes the counties' 1½ cent share of the gasoline tax on the basis of one-third on the present plan—according to the State taxes paid in 1925—and the other two-thirds equally as to area, population, and all taxes, State and local, collected by the county treasurer. As amended the bill would give every county $1,000 a month as a minimum, distinguished from $12,000 a year in that the income will be steady and not dependent on gas tax collections.

Would Add 1,587 Road Miles.

The Porter-Rhodes road mileage bill would add 1,587 miles to the State highway system, bringing the total mileage to about 8,600 miles on the basis of area, with a minimum mileage of 8 for small counties and a minimum of 25 miles for each county adjoining a city of 50,000 population.

Under amendments adopted by the Senate committee this afternoon, understood to be acceptable to the house, this mileage would be added in four equal installments of nearly 400 each.

With agreement reached on these plans, the Bryant-Allman plan for distributing the gasoline tax will be shelved, as will the Layman bill that would provide the addition of 1,587 miles of roads.

Under the proposed plan, the State highway department will be able to put the roads it takes over in shape and maintain them with the maintenance fund that is supplied by the automobile license tax.

GOVERNMENT GIVEN 150,000-ACRE PARK

Public Playground Site Was Once Trod by Boone in South Wilderness.

WILBUR THANKS DONORS

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Government yesterday took over for use as a huge public playground part of the mountain wilderness that once bore the print of Daniel Boone's moccasins and echoed the road of his bear-killing rifle.

Deeds to 150,000 acres, nucleus of the projected Great Smoky Mountain National Park, were presented to Secretary Wilbur at the Department of the Interior by the Governors of North Carolina and Tennessee.

Expressing the thanks of the American people to those who have labored to fulfill the dream of a great playground for the East, Secretary Wilbur said:

Remarks by Wilbur.

"This hour marks a historical occasion in the progress of conservation.

"In what is now the Great Smoky Mountain National Park area was found an area measuring up to the requirements of a national park because of the heights of mountains, depths of valleys and the unexampled varities of trees, shrubs and plants."

After paying tribute to the Legislatures and parks commission of both States Secretary Wilbur said he wanted particularly to express his appreciation of the great public spirit shown by the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial and John D. Rockefeller, jr., in making the park a possibility through their contributions of $5,000,000.

Governors Pledge Aid.

Declaring that his State had contracted for 40,000 more acres and had started condemnation proceedings for another 87,000 acres, Gov. Horton of Tennessee predicted speedy completion of the project.

Gov. Gardner of North Carolina told the Secretary that both his State and Tennessee were confident of acquiring at an early date the 427,000 acres required before the national park service will proceed to develop the region on a basis comparable with the Yellowstone and other great parks in the West.

Store Refrigerator Robbed.

Ten hams, four shoulders and two strips of bacon, totally valued at $30, were stolen from the refrigerator at the store of Samuel Kaplan, 1245 G street northeast, early yesterday by a thief, who forced open a side window to gain entrance.

Envoy Dinner Postponed at White House

Annual Function to Be Held After Return of Hoovers.

By JEAN ELIOT.

KEEPING up with the calendar of entertaining by and for the President and Mrs. Hoover requires a certain amount of intellectual agility. The observance of a 30-day period of official mourning for the late Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good, made necessary the postponement of two White House functions, the Cabinet dinner and the diplomatic reception, dates for which have not yet been announced. And now the President and Mrs. Hoover are planning a ten-day holiday, to be spent fishing off the Florida keys, which will make it necessary to put off the diplomatic dinner, scheduled for Thursday evening, February 13, and will probably cause some rearrangement of the five state receptions which were to have been given on the five following Thursdays.

Plans for White House entertaining for the diplomats seem to be particularly ill fated, with circumstances making necessary the postponement of both fetes in their honor. While no official announcement as to new dates chosen has yet been forthcoming, it is learned from unofficial but authentic sources that the diplomatic dinner will be held on Thursday, February 27, which presumably will mean that the reception to Treasury and Postoffice officials, set for that evening, will go over until later in the season.

The series of Cabinet dinners in honor of the Chief Executive was disarranged somewhat by the official mourning for Secretary Good and the prolongation of the President's much needed holiday may necessitate more changes. However, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, whose turn it would be to entertain for the President and Mrs. Hoover next Tuesday, are in London, and the next Cabinet dinner, with the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Wilbur as hosts, is not scheduled until Tuesday, February 18, by which time the President and Mrs. Hoover may have returned to Washington. Undoubtedly the Chief Executive would be loath to withdraw from one of the dinners of this important series, invitations for which go out weeks ahead of time and which always bring distinguished visitors from other cities to town.

The Congressional Club's annual breakfast, with Mrs. Hoover as the guest of honor, is another fete which has been postponed because of President and Mrs. Hoover's proposed trip to Florida. The breakfast will be on Tuesday, February 25, instead of on Friday, February 14, and will be held in the Pan-American Union Building as originally planned.

Hoover Diners Invited From Far and Near

Guests From Many Cities Enjoy Event at White House.

The President and Mrs. Hoover are breaking with established custom in keeping the lists of guests at their official dinners largely unofficial in character. This was noticeable both at the dinner to the Vice President and the dinner to the Supreme Court and, again, last evening at the White House dinner in honor of the Speaker of the House.

Save for the Speaker and Mrs. Longworth, who were the bright particular stars at this important event, Representative and Mrs. John Q. Tilson were the only guests from Washington's official group in the company. The world of finance had distinguished representation in Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont and Mr. and Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn, of Chicago, and others. There were such distinguished publicists present as Mr. Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, with Mrs. Cooper; Mr. Oscar G. Foellinger, publisher, of Fort Wayne, Ind., with Mrs. Foellinger, and Mr. Edward H. Butler, editor, of Buffalo, with Mrs. Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. James Francis Burke, the former an important official of the Republican national committe, were included, as were Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Doak. Mr. Doak, who is a noted labor leader, has been mentioned as a probable successor to Mr. James J. Davis when—or if—he gives up the portfolio of Secretary of Labor.

For the rest, the company, recruited from many cities, included Judge Augustus C. Backus, Dr. Charlotte Backus, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Bell, Mr. A. W. Beresford, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Finley, Mr. Walter S. Gifford, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Glenn, the former an official of the Russell Sage Foundation; Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lonsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Gates W. McGarrah, Dr. William Gerry Morgan, of Washington, with his pretty daughter, Mrs. Osborne H. Hardison; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert N. Straus, Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff, Col. and Mrs. Arthur Woods, Capt. Allen Buchanan and Col. Campbell B. Hodges.

Although Col. and Mrs. Woods have been infrequent visitors in the Capital of late, they are well remembered here, the colonel, who was once police commissioner of New York, having been a dollar a year man in Washington during the war. Mrs. Woods, who was Miss Helen Morgan Hamilton, is a granddaughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan.

The dinner last evening was followed, as is customary, by an hour of music in the east room. The program was presented by Miss Beatrice Harrison, violin'cellist, and Mr. Tito Schipa, lyric tenor, with Mr. Frederick Longas and Mr. Ellis C. Hammann alternately at the piano.

The table, with its Dolly Madison service as the centerpiece, was decorated with red roses, freesia and baby primula.

Art Promoters Plan Exhibit.

The Art Promoters Club will hold its first large exhibit of its members' work tomorrow from 4 to 7 o'clock in the patio of the Carlton Hotel. The exhibit is open to the public and will include paintings by Mr. Theo. J. Morgan, nationally known artist; Miss Hildegarde Hamilton, whose work has won favorable criticism both in this country and abroad; Mr. Rowland Lyon, a student of Charles Hawthorne; Miss Mae H. Vance, a vice president of the club; Mrs. Eva Colborn, Miss Marie La Savera, Mr. Clyde Wortham, Mr. Philip F. Bell, Mr. Edw. MacDonald and others. The club's exhibit features mostly the work of junior artists.

WISE MOTHERS Know

The Tremendous Influence That Home Environment Has Upon Their Children

YOUTH of today will park either on the roadside or at the fireside. If the family car is more beautiful, more attractive than is the home atmosphere, the furniture and furnishings, where does the responsibility lie?

WISE mothers know that the responsibility is solely their own. They know that youth is particularly susceptible to beauty---and will seek it where it may be found. And they are seeing to it that THEIR children will find it in THEIR home.

WISE mothers who have daughters in their middle teens realize thoroughly the value of appearance on a girl's opportunities in life. And they provide for their smartly groomed young daughters a home background that is equally attractive. In such a home atmosphere a young girl is glad, yes, proud to receive her friends . . . and they are glad to come and see her there. And her wise mother may then meet and know ALL of her daughter's associates.

OKLAHOMA WHISKY DEFENSE LAUNCHED

Seventeen Remain on Trial as Nine More Names Are Cut From List.

GORDON IS ARRAIGNED

Oklahoma City, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Defendants in the Pottawatomie County liquor conspiracy trial in Federal Court here, reduced from the original 202 to 17 by pleas of guilt, dismissals, summations of demurrers, desertions and deaths, today fired the opening guns in their battle.

Cases against six of the defendants were dropped today by Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney, because of insufficient evidence, and three more were released by United States Judge Edgar S. Vaught, who sustained defense demurrers.

Still in the defense trenches, however, were Randall Pitman, county attorney, and Frank Fox, former Sheriff of Pottawatomie County, involved by witnesses as commanding chiefs of the alleged ring which testimony indicated had exacted tribute from an enterprise that undertook to slake the thirst of oil-field workers.

E. L. Sherrill, a former policeman of Earlsboro, today denied the testimony of Mattie Wilson, Negro woman and confessed bootlegger, and her 10-year-old daughter that Sherrill and Dave Limbocher, a defendant, had broken open the child's china bank to obtain $5, asserted to be due them for "protection." Sherrill denied knowledge of any conspiracy for controlling the sale of liquor in Earlsboro.

The Government dismissed the cases against Howard Jones, Happy White, Jess Hall, G. D. Hopps, Bill Hurst and Sherman Ivey, alleged bootleggers. Defense attorneys immediately afterward argued demurrers to the charges against the remaining defendants. Three of the demurrers were sustained, releasing Elza Evans, former chief of police of Mount W. W. Yoder, brother of the chief of police of Shawnee, and Hattie Thompson, proprietor of an Earlsboro hotel.

W. O. Gordon, former assistant State attorney general, charged by the Government with extortion in connection with the purported conspiracy, and by Homer Bishop, Seminole County attorney, with accepting a bribe, was arraigned today on the Federal charge. He pleaded not guilty and bond was fixed at $5,000.

PASSAGE IS ASSURED DRY UNIT TRANSFER

sion. The latter contended that the definition of slight or casual cases, to permit the imposition of fines up to $300 and imprisonment up to six months, would make the proceedings in cases before United States commissioners constitutional.

The accused, he said, could demand a trial by jury and it would be within the province of the district attorney as to whether the case should be submitted to a grand jury under the Jones law, as now is the case. District judges would be authorized to entertain either acquittals or convictions recommended by the commissioners.

The commission's recommendations were assailed in the Senate by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, who declared that its report to Congress was disappointing and that the proposal to broaden the commissioners' powers was unconstitutional.

"If you enact this proposal into law," he said, "you erect a new class of crimes, undefined, inchoate, of uncertain gravity, of unknown penalty until such good time in each individual case as the Attorney General decides."

Chairman Wickersham set aside March 5 for the commission to hear Representative Dyer (Republican), Missouri, plead for the group to study the feasibility of legislation to authorize manufacture of 2.75 per cent beer, which he says is nonintoxicating. The commission as yet has not considered the letter which Dyer addressed to it urging his beer proposal.

The House expenditures committee made public a report from Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran showing that the production and warehousing of industrial alcohol in the thirteenth prohibition district, which includes Chicago, had been reduced by approximately 12,000,000 gallons annually. He added that most of the liquor used in the district was made from moonshine alcohol and spirits instead of pure grain or specially denatured alcohol.

In opening debate on the transfer bill after the House had decided to limit discussion to four hours, Chairman Williamson of the expenditures committee urged that the Nation be made "bone dry" as he said was intended by the eighteenth amendment.

"The very purpose of prohibition," he asserted, "not only was to stop the manufacture and sale of intoxicants, but to prohibit their use, the moment that stocks in private homes became exhausted. Nothing is to be gained by the weasel doctrine that those who like their brew can brew it at home. That preachment is a clear evasion of the whole purpose and intent of the Constitution and the national prohibition act."

Representative Fort (Republican), New Jersey, recently contended in the House that the brewing of beer and making of wine in the home was permissible under the law.

Representative Gasque, of South Carolina, a dry, ranking minority member of the committee, led the attack on the permit regulating provision, declaring that the joint authority would result in friction and "buck-passing of responsibility in enforcement."

Gasque and six other members of the committee, among them two wets, Representatives Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, and Monet (Democrat), Louisiana, filed minority views against the provision. These charged that "illegal diversion of industrial and other alcohol under existing enforcement provisions with dual responsibility, has caused the present deplorable conditions in the enforcement of the prohibition laws."

Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, a wet, took the other view, however, in which he said that the Attorney General should be entirely relieved of any concern with the permits, and that they should be administered solely by the Treasury.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets, 10c.

DEMOCRATS' CAMPHOR VOTE DISRUPTS SENATE COALITION

industry before it was started, charged that Mr. Harrison was "jumping up on the high horse of protection." Senator George, of Georgia, followed with a stinging rebuke of Mr. Harrison, asserting that he did not see how the Democrats, after characterizing the House bill as a monstrosity, could face the country after raising its rates.

Reply by Harrison.

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, asked if he would not limit his castigation to "so-called Democrats," but Mr. George said he would prefer not to qualify his statement.

Mr. Harrison retorted that it ill befitted any one to attack his motives when he did not attack the motives of those who failed to record themselves on the American valuation vote, either by being absent or paired. He was not proposing that the existing rate be boosted, he pointed out, and insisted that the proposed reduction to 1 cent was too much. Development of the camphor industry would enlarge the markets for Southern naval stores, he contended. Strangely enough, Mr. George's State would be one of the States to benefit the most if Mr. Harrison's argument is true.

Eleven of his colleagues followed Mr. Harrison in voting with 36 Republicans for the 5 cent rate while 10 Republicans and 19 Democrats voted against it.

Afterward the Progressives were free to express privately the suspicion that some of the Democrats were conspiring with Republican Regulars to reconsider several of the rates already acted upon with a view to boosting them.

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, and others, served notice, however, that they would not agree to any more unanimous consent agreements to reconsider any rates.

Mr. Heflin voted with Harrison, but Mr. Black, of the same State, vigorously fought the 5-cent rate.

Difficult to Explain.

It was, in fact, a proceeding very difficult of explanation, and was made more so by the fact that subsequently the coalition got back together and transferred baking soda, sodium carbonate and refined borax to the free list and reduced the rate on sodium thiosulphate from three-eighths to one-quarter of a cent a pound and the levy on formaldehyde solution from 2 to 1½ cents.

Whether there is any warrant for the Progressives' suspicions, it is a fact that the Republican Regulars held a rally in the morning and decided not to give up the ship but to continue with their fight and get the best bill they could.

There had been a rather strong feeling on the part of some of the Regulars that they should drop the bill entirely and let the coalition do whatever it wanted with the tariff.

Views of Watson.

According to Senator Watson, Republican leader, however, they decided to do the best they could and stand before the country on their efforts.

With the absence of Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, who is in London, Senator Harrison has been more than the usual influence among his colleagues.

Some Democrats have never been comfortable in the coalition and it may be that they now see a way of making the bill unacceptable to the Progressives and of killing it in the end on the theory that they could tell the country that the Republican party was so lacking in leadership that it could not produce the tariff it promised.

Deming Resignation Accepted by Hoover

President Hoover, in a letter to William C. Deming yesterday accepted the latter's resignation as chairman of the Civil Service Commission, but asked that the effective date be "open to further agreement." Mr. Deming replied immediately that he would be glad to "carry on" until relieved.

The President said in his letter: "I should like to take this occasion to express my sincere regret that you feel you can not continue as chairman of the commission. The long and effective service you have given has contributed to the upbuilding of the Civil Service, and your conduct of the office has won the full esteem of all members of the Government as well as the public at large."

Mr. Deming tendered his resignation on January 28.

Senator Smoot Now Great-Grandfather

Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, was all smiles yesterday, the occasion being the arrival of his first great-grandchild at Garfield Hospital, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chambers, who eloped to Frederick, Md., on March 5, 1929. The child will be named Alice, after its mother.

Mrs. Chambers, who is only 18 years old, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smoot, the former the son of the senator. The grandparents of the baby are among the youngest grandparents in the city.

The Greatest Prayer in the World

Prayer is the highest act of man. In it he is nearest to his Creator and the farthest from his sometime brother—the brute. All women and most men pray—whether they admit it or not. Prayer is the soul's answer to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" It came direct from Heaven, and did not unfold itself along with the convolutions of the brain.

Prayer is Hope with wings. It antedates all History. It will outlast Humanity itself. But prayer without faith is not prayer.

This is why the Lord's Prayer is the greatest prayer in the world. It is divine faith breathed into human words. All creeds, formulas, systems, philosophies, theologies—are within its miraculous compass. It is Religion itself. Like the dewdrop, it orbs the universe. Wise men have studied it reverently. Great men have lived and died with it on their lips. One-half the world has known no other prayer for 2000 years.

This is why we call it the greatest prayer in the world.

This newspaper wants every one of its readers to have this Bible

DICTATOR INSTALLED IN COLORADO PRISON

Military Regime Planned at Penitentiary to Quell Sporadic Riots.

GUARDS ARE DISCHARGED

KILL FOR NEW LEAD . . . . . .Y.

The prison is under the dictatorship of Col. Patrick J. Hamrock, who during the World War commanded the 157th Infantry. Announcement of Col. Hamrock's appointment was made today by the State Board of Corrections, which controls the prison.

Informed of the plan to restore order at the penitentiary, Gov. W. H. Adams suggetsed to members of the board that they resign their posts. The board replied that the governor's suggestion would not be followed.

By resolution the corrections board took steps to discharge three guards whose actions were criticized after the riot in October, and summarily discharged two more.

Col. Hamrock, it was said informally, has been given virtually absolute control in managing the prison for a period of from three to six months, but the existing administration is not to be disturbed in its official capacity. Warden Francis E. Crawford is to retain supervision of the institution and William Green, deputy warden, the target of much criticism from the convicts, will not be removed.

Hamrock's title is special deputy warden. The work of reorganization is to include the employment when feasible 50 former service men and others with military experience as guards.

The board of corrections also announced it will take steps to purchase 1,800 acres of farm land 4 miles east of Canon City, on which to quarter and work the more orderly convicts. A new cellhouse is in the process of construction.

The last disturbance in the penitentiary was a fire last Saturday which swept the prison tailor shop. Several of those under suspicion of starting the fire are in solitary confinement.

Rum Trial for Florida Police Chief Is Started

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—J. D. White, chief of police of New Smyrna, went on trial in Federal court this afternoon charged with violation of the national prohibition laws. White is one of six defendants indicted by a Federal grand jury in connection with alleged liquor transactions at New Smyrna.

White's trial is separate from those of the other defendants. Motions for a plea in abatement and to quash the case were denied. A motion for bill in particulars also was denied and the court proceeded to select a jury.

Just In From Sweden, Pair Wed in Airplane

New York, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—A young couple who had come all the way from Sweden today went 3,500 feet further—perpendicularly—to be married. Taking off from Curtiss-Valley Stream Field with the Rev. Axel C. Helanger in an airplane with them, Majken Lofgren and Percival D. Evans were married over New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans said there was no particular reason for their aerial wedding except that they "thought it would be nice." Neither had been up in an airplane before.

2 Young Children Die As House Burns Down

Buckingham, Quebec Feb. 6 (A.P.). Two young children of Damien Delauriers were burned to death here late yesterday when fire destroyed the farm home in which they had been left alone while their parents attended to outdoor chores.

The children were Romand, aged 15 months, and Lucille, 3 years.

Pistol Battle Blocks Attempt to Rob Bank

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—An attempt to rob the Bank of Danville, Boone County, failed today when Robert Ferrell, assistant cashier, engaged the robber in a pistol battle at close range. Neither Ferrell nor the bandit was injured.

The robber fled, but was arrested two hours later. He said his name was John S. Stark.

Post Free Cooking School Scheduled for Next Week

Mrs. Frances Northcross to Give Instructions at Belasco Theater on How to Plan Management of Household and Serving of Meals.

Housekeeping finances will come in for constructive discussion by Mrs. Frances Northcross, who will conduct The Post's free cooking school for four days next week at the Belasco Theater.

It is an economic fact that the housewife spends about 85 per cent of the family income. Two items, food and equipment, represent a major portion of this outlay, aside from usual furnishings. To handle this great responsibility demands keen appreciation of values and every available aid in arranging an efficient spending plan, which, in turn, insures an efficient saving plan, both being dependent upon a definite budget.

Housekeeping may be divided into a multitude of departments, all calling for a businesslike program, with expenditures carefuly scheduled. Ideas on marketing constitute an important part of the budget operation, and Mrs. Northcross will devote considerable time to advice on planning menus and buying economically.

Another important subject to be covered is that of cheerful and self-respecting attire for housework, which has much to do with the housewife's state of mind and with preventing housework from becoming a monotonous grind. This subject also has an important bearing upon the balancing of expenditures for clothing.

Simple, colorful attire is a principle widely recognized in business offices, where women are wearing pleasing and inexpensive smocks as a protection to regular street dresses. Mrs. Northcross will demonstrate in her cooking-school attire her principles in house dresses, uniforms and aprons, putting special emphasis on garments comfortably loose, not too long, and roomy enough to permit easy steps about the kitchen.

A part of the school work which will appeal particularly to those who attend the school will be a scientific study of diet planning to reduce or gain weight. Mrs. Northcross points out that too many women rely upon hearsay and haphazard suggestions in arranging diets, very often to the serious impairment of health and abnormal expenditures for "trick" foods. The factors entering into overweight and underweight will be handled in a scientific manner at The Post's school, and simple principles will be made clear for use in the home according to physicians' advice in each case.

The sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, from 2 to 4 o'clock. No tickets will be required for admission, and the entire course will be free. Each afternoon, food products prescribed in the course will be presented free to those who attend the lectures and on Friday many women will be delighted with a large assortment of household gifts, contributed by local merchants, which will be distributed to those who attend the class.

RETENTION OF PRIMO MAYOR CAUSES RIOT

Seville Crowd Surges Into Appointee's Office and Demands He Quit.

SEDITION CHARGES END

Seville, Spain, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—A demonstration today against a holdover appointee of the Primo de Rivera dictatorship brought cavalry patrols on the streets to preserve order. No one was injured and there were no arrests.

The disturbance began when crowds which at noon were leaving a cathedral service observing the anniversary of the queen mother's death began cheering some representatives of the new Berenguer government who also had attended the service. Then some students shouted:

"Down with the municipal government created by Primo!"

Office Is Stormed.

With that a parade started to the city hall, and the students led an invasion into the office of the mayor, Manual Diaz Molero, a primo appointee. They demanded that he resign.

The mayor told them that he had given his resignation to Gen. Damaso Berenguer, but that Gen. Berenguer desired him to continue until after liquidation of the Seville exposition.

Dissatisfied and continuing the demonstration, the crowd marched to the palace of the civil governor, repeating its demand. Order was restored through efforts of the police and a promise by the governor that he would telegraph the Madrid government of the crowd's wishes.

Sedition Charges Dropped.

At Madrid, meanwhile, it was announced that "all charges of rebellion and sedition against the Primo dictatorship were as dead as the dictatorship itself. A royal decree proclaimed general amnesty for persons accused under those charges. The decree was made known at the royal mausoleum, where the first anniversary of the death of the queen mother was being commemorated.

Under the proclamation, several hundred civilians and army officers thus find themselves free of charges and restored to their former status.

Among them is Sanchez Guerra, former premier, who headed a movement against Primo. Sanchez expressed profound thanks to the king and set about immediately to form a new political group.

Scouting Fleet Reaches Colon.

Colon, Panama, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—The United States scouting fleet, under Vice Admiral William C. Cole, arrived here today 24 hours ahead of schedule. The seven vessels will remain here a week before proceeding to Guantanamo for an aerial review of the naval planes.

CHICAGO CRIME LAID TO LOW POLICE PAY

Head of Department Seeks Larger Force at Higher Salaries as Cure.

CITIZENS SEEK ACTION

Chicago, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Today was a day without a shooting of any consequence in Chicago.

In the relative quiet after a succession of seven killings and two other shootings by gunmen in seven days, legitimate business served notice that it might demand drastic and definite action by the law enforcement authorities to end the reign of crime.

The Landis Award Employers Association offered $1,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the assailants of Philip H. Meagher, construction superintendent on the new lying-in hospital, who was shot twice and seriously wounded yesterday. Police expressed conviction that he was shot by racketeers.

Commerce Heads to Act.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, announced that the series of shootings would come before a meeting of the association's executive committee tomorrow. What line of attack the business men would adopt was not indicated.

James B. Forgan, jr., a member of the committee, expressed the opinion that business should bring pressure on the police.

"Something should be done to break the alliance that now exists between certain high authorities and the gangland element," he said. "If necessary I think we should establish a sort of Scotland Yard, not as a part of the police department, but to work in connection with them."

Police Force Inadequate.

William F. Russell, police commissioner, said the real cause of the situation was that "we haven't nearly enough police, and those we have are entirely underpaid. We have 4,000 police. We need 20,000."

"We pay them an atrocious salary and expect all of them to stay straight on it. Most of them have families. Gangsters come to them and offer big money to turn their backs on lawbreaking. We expect them to say 'no, I won't take it,' and go on supporting their families on their meager pay. Of course, we fire the crooks when we find them, but it's hard to find them.

"And because we are bound by civil service we can't fire a man simply because we suspect that he is crooked. We have to prove it. That's one thing further that handicaps the department—civil service."

NINE SUSPECTS HELD IN KIDNAPING PLOT

New Haven Man Recuperates in Sanitarium After He Is Freed by Band.

$25,000 RANSOM PLEDGED

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Nine persons were in the custody of New York and New Haven police tonight in connection with the kidnaping of Max Price, 62-year-old real estate operator, while the victim of the ransom plot was recuperating in a private sanitarium from the effects of eight days in the hands of kidnapers.

Although the connection of those arrested with the case was not explained by authorities, the seven held here are under bond of $10,000 each on technical charges of idleness, while in New York two members of Detroit's "purple" gang were held without bail for a hearing Monday.

Price stumbled into a railroad station at Bridgeport early today and said he had been released by his captors after promising to pay $25,000 ransom. He told police he believed he was held captive near Springfield, Mass. He said he was placed in an automobile after promising to pay the $25,000, and was released near Bridgeport after driving for about three hours.

Those arraigned here today on the idleness charges are Jacob Prober, Hyman Orchowsky and Solomon Bodek, all of New Haven; Herman Berman, of Milford, and Isaac Katzman, Morton Lessner and Mrs. Emma Delmater, all of Bridgeport. Their cases were continued until Saturday.

Samuel Hendel and Harry Fleisch, of Detroit, were held by New York police as suspects in the case.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 7 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:20 p. m. and from 8:40 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Opportunities will not be found lacking on this date for either material advancement, or mental enrichment. Do not be confiding, as a traitor may be found among your associates. Tact and caution are both essential.

Children born on this February 7 will possess an abundance of diplomacy, and they will be good mixers with all classes of people. They have both poise and charm and will be able to hold their own without an effort.

If, as Lord Averbury once said, cheerfulness, good humor and peace of mind are powerful elements of health, then you are a very healthy individual. You are apparently never unhappy, out of sorts or worried; if disaster overtakes you, your philosophy "it might have been worse" saves you from despair. It also creates within you indomitable courage, and enables you, with a strong heart, to start all over again.

While never pessimistic, you are not extravagantly optimistic. You have a level head, and possess a large measure of sound common sense. You possess the happy gift of judging individuals and also timing opportunities. Not endowed with any great intellectual gifts, you are yet destined to achieve material, as well as spiritual, success. You never shirk a duty, no matter how unpleasant it may be, and are always on top of your job.

Your affections, once engaged, remain constant. You will be free from "all entangling" foolish infatuations, and will never waver in your love for the one with whom you resolve to mate. There is a strong religious streak in your "make-up." You, however, derive more comfort from the solace that religion affords than from ceremonial observance.

Successful people born February 7:
1. Benjamin Randall, clergyman.
2. Charles Fordyce, educator.
3. Gouverneur Morris, author.
4. Charles Dickens, author.
5. Robert Jackson Gamble, senator.
6. John Deere, manufacturer—founder Moline, Ill., plow works.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: I don't want my letter to be lengthy enough to boss you or to cause you to refrain from answering me through your nice column in the daily paper, so I am going to tell you in just so many words about what I want to know. What do you think, is a girl in love with a boy when she dislikes him when she is with him and sees him, and even feels ashamed to be seen with him, and yet wants him terribly when he is angry and away from her, and feels that she is constantly wishing no one else is with him? Such is my case. I don't know whether I love him or not. When he is with me and tells me how much he loves me, I feel that I loathe him, and yet when we quarrel and I wonder whether some other girl is with him, I am tempted to even go first in making up things. I do wish you could tell me, because things have come to the point where I must decide one way or another.

PEARL.

No woman loves a man of whom she is ashamed, but many a woman is ashamed of the man she thought she loved. Some day people will be told the truth about love, attraction, magnetism and control. Until then girls will go on wondering about such situations as you describe. As we are still living in the age of darkness, I can touch but lightly upon the subject, but I hope that you may profit by the touch, however light. You are repelled and attracted at the same time, and you think that it is the man that is attracting and repelling you. In point of fact it is not the man, but what he represents. Should you, therefore, yield to the attraction as millions of women have, you would soon face the truth, and also the future.

Therefore the man is not the man for you, however much you may desire what he represents. You say in part of your letter that you feel sure you must really love him because you are tortured with jealousy lest some one else take him from you. Such emotional evidence proves nothing and is mere reversion to the primitive and denotes simple fear that what the man represents may be denied you. It is this sort of urge that prompts most of the marriages that are supposed to have been "made in Heaven." Just sheer elemental jealousy is an infallible sign of love. The fact that jealousy may accompany love does not prove that jealousy accompanies nothing but love, nor does it prove that whatever emotion arouses jealousy is love and love only.

Some people who love very truly are not at any time "tortured" by jealousy. All of which means nothing at all for what applies to one does not apply to another. But of one thing you and every girl and woman who reads this may be sure, no woman loves the man of whom she is ashamed. Just accept that much as truth and even in this age of darkness you may side-step one pitfall for the unwary in the groping search for love.

This column is for you. Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Isn't ermine on black irresistible? And note the lines of this coat! (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

Paris, Feb. 6.

WHO would believe that a black knitted jersey beret could be offered, even by the Chanel . . . for thirty and forty dollars! But then, I suppose one is so privileged to be Chanel-ed, as it were, that one is willing to pay, oh, almost anything!

But a beret is a beret for all that, and the knitted ones continue to have that elusive chic, which has made their creator famous.

But Agnes adds a touch of luxury to her berets this season—the first trimmed berets, I do believe! On some of her chapeaux sit tiny colored birds; on some are placed a tiny spray of osprey feathers.

The tiny birds are most effective when catching back the brim of a tweed hat—worn only with tweed suits, of course.

• • • •

Did you see the black jersey and tweed that joined forces in a certain ensemble that took the air (and all glances) in the Bois de Bologne? The brim of the tweed hat was faced in jersey, and the black jersey scarf, knotted on the left, was banded in the tweed.

• • • •

And just to show you how much we love you, we have cut up a new seven-hundred-and-fifty-franc beret in order to figure out how to go about telling you how to make it! Watch for the leaflet.

• • • •

All the chic Parisiennes are wearing them now, and you'll be wearing them this spring! If you don't—well, is there any use in living if you aren't "in the mode?" Of course not, so send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make a delightful variety of hat, bag and scarf ensembles—of tweed or suede or knitted, with incrustations and appliques. You're sure to see the very one you most want, illustrated for you in the leaflet.

• • • •

'Twas simply black faille, with a cunning wee collar and cuffs of ermine—but it put many a lavishly furred coat to shame. And it was pretty long, too, although Bernard et Cie. do not generally favor a great deal of length to their daytime coats. So, all in all, it wasn't so very much trouble to sketch it for you today.

• • • •

The designers have hit upon the idea of insertions on the hips, and in an effort to accustom the eye to a higher, more slender, more normal waist. For so many years we have looked at belts everywhere but at the waistline—not that, for heaven's sake, the waistline, just because it happens to be one of the curves of a woman's figure, must be the exact place for a belt!

Insertions on the hips lead the way to skirt fullness without interfering with rhythm of line. From the narrow slender waist and the close-fitting hips, the fullness spreads out naturally, led by the effect of the insertions.

"Parking With Peggy"

"Girls who get left used to take it to heart—but now they take it to court."

The Lingerie Touch on Soft, Lacy Tweed

It belies its apparent simplicity by being a fashion story in every detail; it heralds the arrival of the spongy tweed in lacy weave, here in green and beige, smartly reversing its wavy stripes to give long silhouette fashion to the flared skirt. And the sleeves, short as the fashion is new. The tailored collar, the saucy rosettes of handkerchief linen are its simple adornments. Size 18.

JELLEFF'S
1 F STREET

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

LET calamity howlers cry to their hearts' content about the future of the American theater. Mr. T. D. Bonneville, manager of Poli's, watching crowds pour into his playhouse to see "Blossom Time," believes the theater is not dead yet. "If you've got something the public wants," says Mr. Bonneville, philosophically, "they will come to see it. This week 'Blossom Time' is breaking all records—at least all the records established up to four years ago. It must be remembered that this piece has played here at least eight or nine times. The answer is, 'Blossom Time' has merit—or the folks would pass it by." Now there's something in that observation.

• • • •

THE record of the present season is satisfying in local theatricals, even though dismal failure has been registered in some cases; plays that were utterly worthless. Whenever the managers see fit to send worthy pieces to the theater hereabouts, the crowds turn out. It's a way crowds have—going to see plays and pictures and dances worth while. Seldom, if ever, can any interest be drummed up over mediocre wares. Hence, the outstanding attractions at the National, such as Otis Skinner in "Papa Juan," George M. Cohan, in "Gambling," and several like that, have broken house records.

• • • •

Tomorrow night at 8:30 music lovers will turn their steps toward Constitution Hall, where Rosa Raisa, dramatic soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, and Giacomo Rimini, barytone of the same company, will offer one of the concert high lights of the current season. This joint operatic program is the fifth attraction in Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Saturday evening concert series.

• • • •

ON Tuesday afternoon in Poli's Theater the young Cuban coloratura, Emma Otera, will appear in concert as the third attraction in the philharmonic course. Frank La Forge, American composer and pianist, will be Miss Otera's accompanist in a group of several superb vocal numbers that includes the "Shadow Song" from Meyerbeer's "Dinorah." There will be, naturally, several Spanish folk songs—and it is hinted that the entire Cuban diplomatic delegation will be present.

• • • •

To keep the records straight, announcement is made by Mrs. Wilson-Greene that a recent statement issued by her office stating that Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan Opera Company soprano, would make her only concert appearance of the current season here on February 21, next, is incorrect. Ponselle will sing at Poli's Theater on Wednesday afternoon, February 19, at 4:30 o'clock, as the fourth attraction of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's philharmonic course of afternoon concerts.

• • • •

A talking picture, "Across the World with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson," has been booked for presention in the National Theater beginning Sunday night for a week's run. Across the street, at Poli's, Mr. Fritz Leiber, the Shakespearean actor, brings his Chicago company for a six-day repertoire—eight plays by the Bard of Avon.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

CANNED FOODS TURNED DARK.

CANNED foods that have turned dark are wholesome. This is one of the conclusions reported to a recent meeting of the American Public Health Association. This applies to canned corn, shrimp, lobster, flaked fish, okra, onions and hominy.

The volatile oils of the onions are rich in sulphur. Heating drives off this substance and it combines with the metal of the can to make a dark but harmless substance. In the case of the other foods mentioned, heating sometimes drives some sulphur from the protein of the food. This unites with the iron of the can to produce a dark but wholesome product. However, if the cans are coated with a laquer which contains a little zinc, the sulphur combines to form an insoluble light-colored zinc sulphide. The food is wholesome and it is not dark.

The report commends a new method of packing in tin or glass that is now being tried. It is called the waterless pack. The vegetables are packed dry except for their own juices. The products contain more vitamins and minerals than are found in ordinary packs. There should be no arsenic poisoning due to eating fruits sprayed on the trees. The fruit growers and the Government working jointly have devised methods of washing all arsenic from sprayed fruits before packing them. The report says that satisfactory progress is being made in protecting peas and corn against bacterial infections before being packed and during the process. The report looks with favor on a new method of sterilizing food and vegetable juices by means of electricity.

The report on artificial ripening of fruits and vegetables by the new methods is less definite. Fruits and vegetables so ripened are not poisonous nor unwholesome. However, they do not equal those ripened on the tree or vine.

Canned foods have emerged from the difficulties they were in a few years ago. Because of a considerable number of outbreaks of botulinus poisoning the industry suffered greatly. However, they went to work to discover what was wrong. They found there were some rule-of-thumb trade processes which were not above criticism. These were changed one by one. At the present time there is virtually no botulinus poisoning due to foods packed in industrial establishments. The food poisoning we now have is due to foods other than from cans.

IT MAY BE SYMPTOMS.

W. O. W. writes: For some time I have been troubled with palpitation of the heart. Sometimes two months will pass with no trouble and again I will have spells very close together. My heart beats with such rapidity (apparently for no cause; for instance, without exercising) that my entire body shakes and when it stops very suddenly with a jerk it leaves me quite exhausted. I have not doctored for this, as I am not sure that it is serious. Do you believe it is?

REPLY.

This is a symptom. It may mean too much tobacco or organic heart disease or something less important. It may or may not be dangerous Have your heart examined to know the cause, variety and remedy.

BIBLE AND NERVOUSNESS.

A friend writes: I am writing about a remedy for nervousness. A lady went to a physician for treatment for her nervous trouble. The doctor told her what she needed was not medical aid, but advised her to go home and read her Bible an hour each day for a month and then return and let him know how she was doing. She did so, and came back with a smiling face and happy over her recovery from nervousness. This remedy has proved a true blessing for others.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

HEAT IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

(Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

Heating of rooms. The proper heating of a residence is a matter of the utmost importance, as upon it depends the comfort and health of the occupants. Two essentials are a supply of heat and a supply of fresh air. The supply of heat is usually given some attention, while the supply of air is often sadly neglected. Fortunately, few residences are so tightly built as to prevent some leakage of air from the outside, otherwise this neglect would be more serious than it is.

When fuel is burned in a furnace, stove or grate for heating purposes part of the fuel is usually left unburned, part of the heat produced passes off up the chimney and part may be lost from hot water, steam or air pipes running to the several rooms and the remainder is utilized in heating the air in the room and in supplying the loss of heat through the walls, doors and windows.

A certain amount of heat is of course required to keep a house warm in cold weather even if no fresh air is admitted, and if cold fresh air is admitted heat is necessary also to warm this air, but the amount of heat needed for this purpose is not large. If the air outside is at a temperature of 32 degrees F. (freezing point) and is to be warmed to 70 degrees F. it would require about 2 pounds of coal per day to heat an ample supply of air for one person (2,000 cubic feet per hour). Thus in heating residences an ample amount of fresh air can be allowed without greatly increasing the cost of heating.

Cards' Chain System Has Weak Link

Cuccinello Acquired by Reds Despite Rookie Machine.

Cards May Be Forced to Shift Frisch to Third Base.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

REPORTS regarding the manner in which the St. Louis Cardinals conduct their "chain store" baseball business are to the effect that everything is conducted in such a business-like manner that even an efficiency expert could find little ground for criticism. The links of the "chain" are clubs of practically every rating within organized baseball and the talent is automatically classified through a daily report system which is used as a basis of either promoting or reducing until players find their proper niche.

But, as is the case in all big businesses, slipshod methods occasionally creep in, the result being that Tony Cuccinello, a player whom the Cards could use very handily, is now the property of the Cincinnati Reds.

"We thought we had put over a good deal when we were offered $1,500 for this player. We snapped it up and now we'd pay $30,000, or 20 times as much, for Tony today," said Branch Rickey, the guiding genius of the Cards' chain store system.

Rickey Admits He Was Wrong.

Rickey admits that he was outwitted when he let the Italian infielder get away from him a little more than a year ago. At Danville, a Cardinal farm, Cuccinello's ability and ginger failed to impress and it was thought a fine deal had been made when Columbus—a "farm" of the Cincinnati Reds—took the player for $1,500. Last season, Cuccinello developed into the most talked of recruit of the year and he is considered a standout to finish on top in the struggle for the third base berth in the Cincinnati infield.

In the meantime, the Cardinals are extremely hard up for a third sacker and may have to shift Frank Frisch, the veteran second base flash, over to the position because they let one of the best third basemen of the minors get away from them.

At Danville, the Cardinal scouts thought that Cuccinello wouldn't do because he was a little slow. "I've learned a lesson in this case," says Rickey, "and my youngsters must show more of a weakness than this in the future before I will let them get away from us."

Tony led the association in most hits, 227, and most doubles, 56, last season. He was credited with ten triples and twenty homers, giving him a total-base figure of 363. With Columbus, he played both second and third base. At the middle cushion, he handled 354 putouts, 508 assists and bobbled 21 times, while at third he made 25 putouts, 48 assists and two errors.

Nats' Vanguard Goes Tomorrow.

After several postponements, President Clark Griffith and Secretary Eddie Eynon, jr., of the Washington Baseball Club, hope to start for Chattanooga and Biloxi Saturday. The Nat owner will conduct the club's business from Biloxi, following a two or three-day sojurn in the Lookout City while en route, with Eynon returning here in time to make arrangements for the opening season game with the Red Sox here on April 14.

For the second time in the history of the national game, the Nats will have an exclusive opener a day before those of any other teams, this having been decided upon at the December, 1927, joint major league meeting. Griffith sold his fellow magnates the idea on the grounds that it helped baseball to have the President of the United States start off each season by tossing out the first ball. As clubs open at home on alternate years, this means that every other year finds the Nationals opening a day ahead of the others and then jumping elsewhere—to Boston this year—for the regular inaugural.

VICTORS IN CUE TOURNEY.

J. Ruppert and J. F. Fairbanks won matches in the billiard tournament at Elmer's Parlor last night. Ruppert defeated N. L. Sauls, 125 to 107, while Fairbanks trimmed L. B. Lambert, 125 to 110. In the shoot-off of a three-way tie for third place in the three-cushion tourney, Lambert won.

Tech-Eastern Title Game Today to Hold Stage Alone

Principals Postpone Central-Western Contest to Avoid Congestion as Leaders Clash for Interhigh Court Crown.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

WASHINGTON high school principals yesterday took cognizance of the tremendous interest being evinced in the Tech-Eastern game, which may decide the interhigh basket-ball title today, and at a special meeting ordered the postponement of the Western-Central game, which was to be part of the two-game program at the Tech Gymnasium. The principals acted to avoid congestion by an overflow crowd which was expected to witness the two games.

Coincident with the postponement, it was indicated by the principals that the Western-Central game, delayed until next Tuesday, would be in the nature of a trial for single-game programs instead of the customary double-headers which have marked the scholastic series for the last several years.

Eastern Seeking To Create Tie.

To annex the 1930 championship without further ado will be the aim of the Tech Quintet this afternoon when the game starts at 3:45, while Eastern will be striving to bring about a deadlock with Tech for the lead by a victory. Eastern also is bearing the hopes of Western High, which can share in a triple deadlock if Tech is beaten and Western can conquer Central in the final series clash next Tuesday.

Defeats for both Eastern and Western would result in a triple tie for second place among these teams and Central.

The importance of Tech's 47-27 rout of the Eastern in the clash between these teams in the first round of the series is minimized as the result of recent games in which Eastern has come forward rapidly to beat Western and Central when they were sharing the lead and also to outscore Business. Eastern now is playing in its best form of the series.

Long Shots Are Eastern Threat.

The Tech zone defense does not hold the terror for Eastern that has characterized the play of other teams against the leader. In Robey and Shirley, Eastern possess the two outstanding long shots of the series.

If Coach Artis Boyd repeats former tactics Tech will adopt the zone defense at the start and shift to the man-for-man style if the former plan of play is ineffective. Indications last night were that the coaches would make no radical changes in recent line-ups.

District Crown Is Aim Of Whirlwind Quintet, Organized for 6 Years

WALTERS' WHIRLWINDS is a name new to District basket ball ranks this year, but the players who will carry that name into the District A. A. U. unlimited tournament to be held under the auspices of The Post next month have been playing together for the past six years.

This team, which created somewhat of a sensation in the Community Center Unlimited League a month ago by trimming the strong Mount Vernon Five, made its bow six years ago under the name of the Southend A. C., which battled its way to a midget title. The same players a year later banded together as the Auth A. C., playing baseball and basket ball. Last year they were known as the Tivoli Whirlwinds on the courts winning the Community Center Senior League championship.

In addition to their success in the Community Center and Boys' Club Leagues the Whirlwinds have turned back some of the best unlimited and 145-pound teams in this section. In 35 games, 28 victories have been annexed. Their list of victims includes the Army War College, Company F, Boys' Club Optimists and Celtics, De-Luxe A. C., Mt. Vernon, Calvary Drakes, Tremonts and Naval Hospital. The Whirlwinds are leading the championship race in the Boys' Club unlimited division.

Harry Wiltshire has captained the team since its inception six years ago. Albert Raeder, Harold Self, Larry Fitzgerald, George Goodenough, Cody and Lee Shapiro, Al Sanders and Francis Connor comprise the squad.

Pete Latzo Matched With Larry Johnson

New York, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, who ate his way into the light-heavyweight division, signed today to meet Larry Johnson, heavy hitting Chicago Negro, in the main 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden, February 21. The match replaces a bout scheduled for that date between Al Ridgeway, of Jersey City, and Kid Chocolate, Cuban star, which has been postponed indefinitely.

Latzo is attempting a comeback after a layoff of over a year due to a fractured jaw, suffered in a bout with Jimmy Braddock.

Maryland to Revive Field Day on May 3

After a lapse of a year, the University of Maryland field day will be held on May 3, at College Park. The event was not held in 1929 because of work on the stadium field, including the building of a new cinder path, rated as one of the best in that part of the country.

The feature of the field day will be a South Atlantic scholastic meet, but other highlights scheduled are varsity engagements against Virginia in track, St. John's of Annapolis in lacrosse and Catholic University in baseball.

Australia Davis Cup Hopes Placed in Youths

Melbourne, Australia, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—The Australian Davis Cup Team for the 1930 tennis competition has been officially selected. It is composed of Jack Crawford, 22-year-old captain; Harry O. Hopman, E. F. Moon and Jack Willard.

Like the United States, Australia has decided to rely on youth in the Davis Cup quest. Crawford and Hopman, a crack doubles combination, were members of the 1928 team that lost to Italy. Otherwise the team has had no Davis Cup experience.

Australia has challenged in the European zone this year and is drawn against Switzerland and in the first round.

Old Line Five Routs State Rival

17 Consecutive Points Scored Against W. Maryland Team.

Chalmers and Berger Lead Attack in 38 to 17 Triumph.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY atoned in part last night for its football defeat at the hands of Western Maryland by dealing its State rival a convincing 37-18 beating on the basket ball court at Ritchie Gymnasium.

The Old Liners toyed with Western Maryland. They ran up an early lead and at the half were in the van, 14 to 7. Then the rout began in earnest. With almost every Maryland player on the floor taking part in the scoring, the Old Liners peppered the basket for 17 consecutive points that placed the game far beyond the recall of the Terrors.

Coach Burton Shipley found occasion to use twelve of his thirteen players during the game, with his zone defense parrying with fine effect the Western Maryland attack, while the latter's own zone play was sieve-like before the clever passing and shooting of the Old Liners.

Wooley Brilliant In Defeat.

Western Maryland presented a one-man team in Wooley, clever forward, who accounted for six of the Terrors' seven field goals and fourteen of their eighteen points. The only other Western Maryland player able to score was Hammel.

In the last three minutes Western Maryland abandoned its zone defense for the man-for-man style without effect. Erratic shooting from the foul line cost Western Maryland many points. The Terrors made good on only four of seventeen attempts.

Nats Option 3 Rookies To Chattanooga Team

The release of three Washington rookies to Chattanooga of the Southern Association on option was announced by President Clark Griffith, of the Nats, yesterday.

First Baseman Harley Boss will be subject to 24-hour recall notice, but Pitcher Edward Wineapple and Outfielder Buck Freeman, formerly of the Marines, will be at Chattanooga for the rest of the season.

200-Pound Oklahoman Selected as Carnera Foe

St. Louis, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Buster Martin, 200-pound boxer from Oklahoma, was named today by Seneca C. Taylor, State boxing commissioner, as a satisfactory opponent for Primo Carnera when the Italian giant appears here next Tuesday night.

Taylor, who yesterday rejected Theodore (Tiny) Roebuck, Kansas City Indian boxer, as Carnera's opponent on the grounds that the Indian was not good enough, announced his choice after Mique Malloy, Chicago promoter, spent the night at the long distance telephone seeking a suitable foe without success.

Taylor said that Martin has knocked out Roebuck and is recommending the Oklahoman to Malloy, who has not yet announced a decision.

Primo Carnera Stops Owens in Second Round

Newark, N. J., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Primo Carnera, giant Italian, knocked out Cowboy Billy Owens a few seconds after the start of the second round of a feature 10-round match tonight in the Newark Armory. Carnera weighed 276, Owens, 220.

After playing with Cowboy Billy, hailed as a Cherokee Indian from Guthrie, Okla., through the first round, experimenting, taking a punch or two and dancing violently to display his speed, Carnera turned vicious at the opening gong for the second session and beat the Indian down. The victory cost Carnera his record for one-round knockouts, both his previous opponents, Big Boy Peterson and Elzear Rioux, having passed out of the picture in less than half a round apiece.

G. W. Boxer, Barred, Found to Be Eligible

Bill Stanley, one of the George Washington University boxers, declared ineligible to compete in the match with Catholic University Wednesday night, was yesterday found to have been the victim of a mistake in the G. W. registrar's office. A recheck of the records showed that Stanley was eligible as far as his scholastic work was concerned. He had an average of 83. He was promptly restored to good standing on the boxing squad. Max Jeweler and Bud Terry, the others ruled out the night of the match, remained in that status.

CATHOLIC U. LOSES 10TH STRAIGHT

St. John's Five Wins, 34-19; MacCartee in Star Role.

IT took St. John's Basket Ball Team of Annapolis fourteen minutes to score its first field goal at Catholic University last night, but after the first had dropped through the net the rest were not far behind, and the Johnnies had little trouble in walking off the floor with a 39-to-19 victory over the Cardinals, making the tenth straight time that the Brooklanders have tasted defeat.

A bit peeved by the nonappearance of the C. U. Team, which did not walk on the floor for nearly an hour after the scheduled time of the game, the Johnnies were further irritated when the home team got off to an early 5-3 lead, but after scoring five successive times from the foul line, the visitors soon found their scoring eye and from the non were never stopped. Carpenter led the first half attack which found St. John's on the long end of a 13-6 rosce at intermission, while Capt. Bob MacCartee, with nine points, led the second half assault.

In a preliminary, Central High was no match for the C. U. Freshmen, who scored at will to register a 33-21 triumph.

LAST CHANCE FOR TEMPLE BOWLERS

Must Beat King Pins Tonight to Stay in League Race.

THE Temple-King Pin match of the District League, scheduled tonight at the Northeast Temple alleys, will open another busy week-end for duckpin enthusiasts. The contests between the District League clubs mark the close of the second series of the championship race. Unless the Temple pinmen can wrest two or more games from the leaders tonight, the championship will be practically conceded to Howard Campbell's crack outfit.

Practically every big establishment in the city will stage a sweepstakes event tomorrow night. The first annual Masonic League sweepstakes gets under way at Convention Hall with more than 200 contestants assured. Five games will be rolled tomorrow night and as many the following Saturday night.

Bill Wood's powerful King Pin Five will go to Baltimore tomorrow night to engage Julius Freeburg's Recreation Happy Five in the second block of the match begun here last week. The local team has a lead of better than 100 points and expects to add to that advantage.

Ruth Celebrates 36th Birthday Today, Firm in $85,000 Demand

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Babe Ruth is preparing to cut himself a piece of cake tomorrow. It will not be a slice of the profits made by the New York Yankees, of which the Babe desires $85,000 a year on a three-year contract, but a slice of birthday cake.

The home run king will be 36 years old tomorrow and will leave his daily rounds of golf long enough to participate in a birthday party in his honor, arranged by Adolph Grant, of New Rochelle, N. Y., a wealthy admirer of the Bambino.

The Babe insists he is not worrying over the dispute between himself and owners of the baseball club about the matter of salary.

"About that contract, I've nothing to say," said Ruth today. "I'm mum and the next move is up to Ruppert." He insisted, though, that he was serious in his demands for an increase of some $15,000 per year.

"So they think I'm kidding 'em, eh?" asked the Bambino. "Well, we'll wait and see what Ruppert says."

Col. Ruppert is due here next week to talk to the home run king about salary matters.

Aside from the birthday celebration tomorrow, there will be a round of golf and after that, the Babe said, he would talk again about his mighty tee shots.

HUNTER WINS IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Considine and Kuhn Beaten in 3 Sets, 7-9, 6-3, 7-5.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—In the quarter-final doubles of the national indoor tennis tournament, Gilbert Hall and Kenneth Appel, South Orange, N. J., defeated Irving Raymond and Raymond Stone, Columbia University, 6—3, 6—2; Coggeshall and Dick Murphy, Utica, N. Y., defeated E. W. Burns, and Reg Talmadge, New York, 6—4, 9—7, and Rockafellow and Merritt Cutler, New York, defeated Bob Considine, Washington, D. C., and Ernest Kuhn, New York, 7—9, 6—3, 7—5, in the first three matches to finish.

Frank Hunter, the tournament favorite out-steadied young Eugene McCauley, of New York, by scores of 6—3, 8—6 today to join Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J.; Julius Seligson, Lehigh University, and Perrine Rockafellow, New York, in the semifinal round of the singles.

Hall Finally Scores.

After being several times within a point or two of defeat, Gill Hall, of South Orange, N. J., finally downed Ed Jenkins, hard driving New York youth, at 9—11, 13—11, 6—0, in another quarter-final.

What had been expected to prove a close duel between Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Julius Seligson, New York, turned into a rout and the lone Middle Western standard-bearer was thoroughly beaten by scores of 6—1, 6—2.

Perrine Rockafellow, former Colgate player, led the way into the semifinal round, upsetting Herbert L. Bowman, a fellow New Yorker, 6—3, 6—4, in a quarter-final match. Rockafellow's accurate forcing shots gave him enough of an edge to gain the needed service break in each set.

New York Sportsmen To Buy Keeney Park

Violets Retain Early Lead Over G. U.

Rally Near Finish of First Half Featured by Nemecek.

Hilltoppers Outscore N. Y. U. by 3 Points in Second Period.

By JACK ESPEY.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY, easily the best basket ball team, collegiate or otherwise, tht has shown here in two years, defeated Georgetown last night, 26 to 20, in a hectic game before 1,200 spectators at Tech High School. Thus, the Violet gained a 2-to-1 edge in the season's series with the Hilltoppers, each club having won in earlier contests.

The New Yorkers personified basket ball perfection, their general play rivaling that of professionals. They passed with smoothness and deception, shot with uncanny accuracy and guarded so closely that Georgetown had only two open chances for scores. Added to this, they showed a fine knowledge of the inside points, using the blind pass and the block play to great effect.

Georgetown was sorely handicapped by the absence of Don Dutton, star forward and center, whose scholastic eligibility was in an uncertain status. His passing and defensive ability might have changed the result had he been able to perform.

New York U. Gains Lead.

New York, U., on a brilliant spurt in midway in the first half, took the lead and never relinquished it; but throughout the second half the Blue and Gray, through proficiency at the foul stripe, threatened to come from behind. With three minutes remaining N. Y. U. adopted "freezing" tactics to safeguard its small advantage.

Jerry Nemecek, football captain-elect, starred for N. Y. U. on both offense and defense. His four field goals and two 1-pointers in the first half enabled his team to gain the front, while his numerous interceptions near the basket in the second period cut off many prospective Georgetown points.

Capt. George Newblatt, John Byrne and Charles Shuman also contributed valuable efforts to the Violet cause. The last-named sank two fielders and four free tosses in five attempts.

Freddy Mesmer and Maurice McCarthy shouldered the burden of the G. U. attack, collecting 12 points between them.

Gonzaga Five Meets Franklin Again Today

Two scholastic games to be played on local floors today promise spirited competition. Gonzaga High will attempt a comeback against the Benjamin Franklin Tossers in the I street gymnasium tonight, while Georgetown Prep will play host to Devitt this afternoon at Garrett Park. Early in the season Gonzaga was nosed out by its opponent of the day, while the rivals of the latter game have not met this season.

Business will begin a two-day tour of Virginia, meeting the Bridgewater College Junior Varsity this afternoon at Bridgewater, Va., and hopping over to Staunton tomorrow to do battle with the Staunton Cadets. Emerson will also be on the road, scheduled to meet Augusta Military Academy today and Woodberry Forest tomorrow.

POTOMAC BOAT CLUB CLINCHES TITLE IN THRILLER

Wiler's Shot Beats Mets, 27 to 26

Petworth Holds Lead With 5 Seconds to Be Played.

Drakes Five Upsets Mt. Vernon, 32-22, in Other Game.

POTOMAC BOAT CLUB clinched the championship in the Community Center League last night by virtue of a thrilling 27-to-26 victory over the Petworth Mets, while the Calvary Drakes were defeating the Mount Vernons, 32 to 22. The Woltz Photographers, who were idle, claim second place.

It was a spirited climax that brought the Boatmen through to victory. The Mets battled the champions on even terms from the start, closing the first half on even terms at 9-9 and the end of the third period found the teams deadlocked at 19-19. Petworth led with five seconds to play and Wiler cut the cords with the winning points as the final whistle sounded.

Wiler Stars for Boatmen.

Wiler was the chief aggressor for the champs throughout, gathering 13 points. Bernie Jones was the scoring ace of the vanquished, accounting for 14 points. Atkins played a good all-around game for the victors.

The Drakes' victory over Mount Vernon came as a decided upset. The Drakes led all the way, holding a 17-to-13 lead at intermission. Melton was the scoring star for the victors, gathering a dozen points. Latona and Berbar accounted for 24 of Mount Vernon's points.

Little Chance of Soccer Games Here on Sunday

Although nothing definite has been decided, it is doubtful if the Capital City and Washington Soccer Leagues will be able to play their scheduled games next Sunday. Officials of the local soccer circuits fear that the condition of the playing fields might endanger the players.

It was agreed by the soccer officials to make a definite decision on Saturday afternoon, and if at that time it is decided that the players are not risking injury by playing the games will go on as scheduled. Rockville will meet Gaelic-Americans and British United will play Gaithersburg Sunday, ground conditions permitting.

MYSTERIOUS moved into the lead with a rush rounding the last turn, but could not withstand the winner's challenge. GOLD HANDLE raced forwardly under light restraint to the stretch, where he finished well. He pulled up sore. YARGEE was given a weird ride. HAM tired after setting the early pace.

GRID CAMPS FROWNED ON BY MILLS

Would Abolish Early Grid Work But Must Meet Competition.

TOM MILLS, new Georgetown football coach and director of athletics, favors the abolition of the preseason training camp in football, but owing to circumstances existing in the East, where practically all of the larger institutions maintain camps, he will not abandon Georgetown's.

This was revealed yesterday by Mills upon assuming his new duties at the Hilltop. He said that preseason training inflicts a hardship on many players in that it prevents them from getting the most out of summer employment; in other words, it costs them in dollars and cents. Also he said, it doesn't allow those holding summer jobs to quit working and take a short rest before starting in on the football program.

Training Camps Few In Midwest.

Most large Eastern schools inaugurate football training on September 1, usually at seashore places or mountain resorts, where the temperature is lower than in the cities. Two weeks usually is spent at these places, and then the squads return to their respective schools for the opening of the academic term about the 15th of the month.

Midwestern schools as a rule do not start training until September 15 and do not maintain camps away from the campus. This is especially true of the Western Conference institutions and Notre Dame, from where Mills has come to Georgetown. Notre Dame observes Western Conference rules, although it is not a member of that body.

Mills' first day in office at Georgetown was taken up with a number of conferences with school officials and athletes. He was just "asking a lot of questions and getting acquainted," he said afterward.

Prepare New Field For Baseball.

His main concern right now is the preparation of the new athletic field located behind the medical school on Reservoir road, west of Wisconsin avenue. He is anxious to have the field in shape for use by the baseball squad, which will start practice late this month. The freshman field, on the Hilltop grounds, will suit the needs of the football squad for spring practice.

Appointment of a baseball coach to succeed Bucky O'Neill, who resigned after serving one season, will probably be announced within three days, Mills stated. Indoor practice for the football squad will commence next Monday in Ryan Gymnasium. Boxing and wrestling will be used for indoor conditioning work.

Tim Moynihan, assistant football coach, is expected to arrive in the city today.

STRAYERS TRIUMPH.

The Strayer's School Quintet won a stubbornly fought battle from the Northern Preps last night at St. Martin's Gymnasium, 22 to 17, after leading at the half, 11-9. Streaks led the attack with nine points.

W. & M. FIVES DEPART ON LONG TRIP

Varsity and Freshmen on Tour Against State Rivals.

Special to The Washington Post.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., Feb. 6.—Indian Varsity and Freshmen Basket Ball Teams left here today to represent William and Mary College on a week court trip through the western part of the State. The Green, Gold and Silver Varsity Five meets Washington and Lee at Lexington tomorrow night in its initial invasion with the Papoose Quintet playing the young Generals in the preliminary tilt.

Washington and Lee is conceded the advantage in tomorrow night's fray due to its great record thus far this season. The Generals are leading the State loop and are as yet undefeated in the running for the Southern Conference championship, with victories over Duke, North Carolina and Maryland. William and Mary has lost one game in the State, to Randolph-Macon, also undefeated in State contests. However, it will be a scrapping bunch of Indians who unload in Lexington tomorrow, and the Generals will not be looking for another fancy dress ball in opposing them.

V. M. I. and V. P. I. Games Follow.

After Friday's game with Washington and Lee, V. M. I. is to be met in Lexington on Saturday night, with the Little Indians again playing the Keydet Frosh in the preliminary. Jumping over to Blacksburg on Sunday, the Indians next oppose V. P. I.'s Gobler Quintet on its home floor on Monday, the William and Mary Freshman Team meeting the Tech first-year five here also.

Both teams travel to Roanoke Tuesday for games with like teams from Roanoke College in Virginia Conference engagements, and then wind up their trip by meeting Bridgewater College in Harrisonburg Wednesday. The Papooses, however, stop off at Staunton to play the Augusta Military Academy Quintet.

Coach John Kellison has had to revamp his line-up due to the failure of McMenamin, center, to pass mid-year examinations. Shaffer, a substitute, will be used in center, or Capt. Mozeleski, a guard, will be shifted to the pivot position with Sundin taking his defense place. It is not known yet which combination he will use. Silverman, Sauerbrun and F. Mozeleski will be used as forwards, and Skyes, Scully and Light in the guard positions.

VIRGINIA FIVE PRIMED FOR N. C. GAME

Contest Tonight Will See Cavaliers' Defense Improved.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Feb. 6.—After the loss of a game to North Carolina State in a five-minute extra period, Coach Randall is daily putting Virginia's varsity basket ball quint through a stiff workout in preparation for the game in Memorial Gymnasium Friday night with the University of North Carolina. Especial attention has been devoted to the passing department of the game, and Randall has diligently drilled his charges in the necessity of speed in getting rid of the ball.

The last few games have shown a decided improvement in defensive work and with the additional practice gained this week, the Cavalier cagemen are expected to put up a hard fight against the Tarheels.

Harry Flippin, captain of the Virginia Track Team, will leave here on Friday for New York, where he will compete in the Millrose A. C. games, which are to be held in Madison Square Garden on the night of February 8.

Set New Record in Race Last Year.

The Cavalier ace will compete in the 50-yard high hurdles. It was in this event, in the same games last year, that Flippin set a new world's record. He has been somewhat handicapped this year by the fact that the gymnasium floor is usually occupied by basket ball players by the time that he can get off from his medical school lectures for practice.

Virginia's varsity swimmers will meet the Duke Blue Devils at Durham on Saturday, while the yearlings will encounter the natators from Tome School here on Friday afternoon.

For the varsity, there are but few changes to be made in the line-up that won out last week over the tankmen from William and Mary. Edward Gwathmey will swim in the relay, but who will be changed to another event has not as yet been decided. It is quite probable, however, that Capt. Brooke Maury will swim the 440-yard free style ratner than the relay, which will leave Penick, Lampton and Chenery to swim with Gwathmey. Maury will also appear in the 150-yard back stroke and the 100-yard free style.

Virginia Cadet Cubs Nose Out Glass High

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 6.—The V. M. I. Freshmen nosed out Glass High School of Lynchburg, 25 to 24, here this afternoon in a fast game in which the score was tied three times and the lead shifted from one team to another seven times. Pruett, Ford and Travers gave the Cadets a 12-to-11 lead in the first half, but L. Haas and Capt. Layes starred for Lynchburg to make the game a seesaw affair in the last ten minutes. A field goal and foul by Edmunds in the last minute won for V. M. I.

Quarantine Halts Sports at Clemson

Clemson College, S. C., Feb. 6 (A P.).—Basket ball games with Newberry, South Carolina and the Citadel and a boxing match with the University of Georgia have been canceled by Clemson College authorities at the request of the State health officer because of a death here from meningitis. No student is known to be suffering from the malady at present.

The following telegram was received from Dr. James A. Hayne, State health officer, by the college surgeon this morning.

"I request that you do not allow any basket ball or other games between Clemson and other institutions during the quarantine and that you do not allow any student to leave Clemson during quarantine."

Dixie Five Wins, 21-20, On Hook's Foul Tosses

Davidson Splits Bill With Roanoke Teams

Special to The Washington Post.

Salem, Va., Feb. 6.—Davidson and Roanoke College split their double bill tonight in the college kymnasium, the little Marrons nosing out the Wild Kittens, 22 to 21, in the curtain raiser, but the Wildcat variety secured ample revenge by handing the Marron varsity a 49-to-16 walloping. It was the first defeat in ten starts for the Davidson freshmen.

Coach Younger, former V. P. I. star, brought a powerful aggregation to Salem and the boys from North Carolina were just entirely too much for the Lutherans. Roanoke College never threatened and except for the first few minutes Davidson held a long lead throughout the game.

W. & L. FIVE ROMPS OVER CAROLINA

Conference Leaders Win, 39-24, After Slow Start.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 6.—Washington and Lee won its sixth Southern Conference game without a defeat here tonight, downing North Carolina University, 39 to 24. The Generals were slow to start. Nine minutes elapsed before they scored their first field goal, but at half time they were leading the invading Tarheels, 16 to 11.

The winners' first seven points were scored from the foul line before Hanna and Williams sank double-deckers from the floor to give them the lead, 11 to 9, and from then on they were never headed. Play during the entire first half was slow, however, only seven field goals being scored by the two teams in totaling their 27 points.

Washington and Lee came back strong in the second half, with Harris Cox, forward, who had scored but 2 points in the first period, hitting his stride to chalk up 11 of his mates' 23 markers.

Williams' Floor Work Is Feature.

The floor work of Williams, smooth-working center, featured the Generals' attack. Green, diminutive forward of the Tarheels, was the whole attack for the invaders, accounting for 14 points, with valuable aid from Marpet, guard. Only twice did Carolina exhibit any sustained attack, once running four points, and, just before the final whistle, registering five markers without the winners hitting the meshes.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 6.—Braced by successive wins over most of the high schools in this section, the Alexandria High School Basket Ball Team will play a double-header here tomorrow night on the Armory Hall court. The first game starting at 7:15 will be played against the Manassas High School in a third district battle, while the last attraction, to start immediately after the first game, will be furnished by the fast Swavely Preparatory School from Manassas, Va. Coach Reynolds is planning on using his second team in the first game with the exception of a few minutes, but he will take no chance of losing it because a loss will knock Alexandria out of first place in the third district race. In a game earlier in the season the local boys had little trouble in handing them a defeat.

The Swavely boys are coming here with a good team, one of the best that has ever represented that school. Led by the brilliant play of Price, tall, lanky center, Swavely will endeavor to even up matters from last year when the local high school handed them a good licking.

Charlie Armstrong, former Alexandria High School football and track star has been elected captain of the Hargrave Military Academy Track Team for the coming season. Armstrong led the football team to one of the most successful seasons that the school has ever enjoyed. He is expected to enter Washington and Lee University next fall.

The Del Ray A. C. held a baseball meeting last night. The suburban boys after having enjoyed the most successful season in the past two years, will place a stronger team on the field this year than ever before.

The George Mason High School Basket Ball Team of this city suffered another defeat yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Fredericksburg High School by the score, 47 to 19. This defeat placed the local school in last place for the third district honors. Handicapped for the lack of a gymnasium the George Mason team has failed to make the grade in basket ball.

STOCK PRICES LOSE AS TRADING SLUMPS

Few Strong Spots Appear, but, in General, List Falls Lower.

LOANS RISE $57,000,000

New York, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Fitful shifts of speculative sentiment sent the stock market into several blind alleys, today, and closing prices, despite individual strong spots, were generally lower, canceling most of yesterday's advance. Trading slackened, however, transfers totaling but 3,708,970 shares.

Further improvement in credit conditions, as evidenced by the reduction of the Bank of England rate from 5 to 4½ per cent before the market opened, and the cut from 4½ to 4 per cent in the New York bank rate after the close, appeared to have been largely discounted in the substantial stock market advances of the past week. The lower rate at London had been confidently forecast for several days, and while there was less certainty about the New York rate, Wall street was convinced that a reduction was only a matter of weeks.

With cheaper money taken for granted, attention remained focused upon the business outlook, and such news as came to hand was not particularly impressive. Further breaks in the cotton and wheat markets during the day were rather unsettling. Both commodities dropped to new lows for the season, although wheat rebounded smartly late in the day.

Earnings Statements Unimpressive.

Several earnings statements for 1929 appeared, but were regarded as largely dealing with water that has passed under the mill. General Motors announced 1929 profit equal to $5.49 a share, as against $6.14, calculated on the same basis, in the previous year. Only the regular dividend of 75 cents was declared. Steel ingot output in January, as computed by the American Iron and Steel Institute, showed considerable improvement over the past two months, but failed by substantial margins to approach the January totals of the past two years.

Brokers' loans, as announced after the close, showed a gain of $57,000,000 for the week, the largest gain, with the exception of the last week of December, since October. This undoubtedly reflected in part, however, payment for recent issues of bonds. It was notable that loans by individuals and corporations were reduced by about $100,000,000, while New York and interior banks increased their loans by $157,000,000. This evidently reflected month-end interest and dividend requirements, as well as increasing commercial activity. The Federal Reserve condition statement showed that the system was again releasing credit through open market purchase of bills. Call money again renewed at 4½ per cent and dropped to 4, but both time loans and bankers' acceptance rates eased.

The stock market opened with a brief burst of strength, evidently on the basis of the reduced London bank rate, but before the end of the first half hour profit taking appeared in large volume, and was in evidence sporadically throughout the day. There were a few notable strong spots. Fox Film was sent up more than 4 points, although its gain was later reduced, on rumors that a satisfactory financing arrangement is being worked out. Some of the less active utilities were buoyant, notably Stone & Webster, which rose more than 7 points to a new high for 1930. General American Tank, American Sumatra, Lackawanna, Continental Shares and Baldwin made fair gains.

Gillette Is Sold Heavily.

Notable soft spots were Simmons and Gillette, which were again the targets for heavy selling. Extreme losses of about 4 and 5 points carried these shares to new lows for the movement. American and Foreign Power, Atchison, J. I. Case, Columbia Gas, Eastman Kodak, International Harvester and Standard Gas were among shares losing 2 or 3 points. Johns-Manville dropped 6. U. S. Steel, Radio and General Motors lost about a point each.

Cotton closed about $2 a bale lower, influenced by weakness in foreign markets, reports of slack textile business and rumors of cancellation of trade orders. Wheat rebounded from its early decline under the influence of bullish weather reports and revival of foreign buying, closing up about 1½ cents. Corn firmed up in sympathy.

European foreign exchange rates held steady, failing to reflect the lower Bank of England rate, as the New York Reserve Bank was expected to reduce its rate later in the day and maintain the relationship between the two money markets. Sterling cables closed at $4.86½, up 1-16. The Latin-American rates continued to sag.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—A further decline, which carried prices for all positions into new ground for the season, occurred in the cotton market here today, under more or less general selling promoted by weakness in foreign markets and the apparent absence of aggressive support. May contracts sold off to 15.89, or 40 points lower, and 53 points below the high price touched yesterday morning. They closed at 15.91, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 38 to 45 points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of 15 to 33 points under a renewal of liquidation combined with local and foreign selling. Relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of declines in the market for Egyptian cotton in the Alexandria and in the Bombay market, seemed to stimulate the selling, and there were rumors that some of the trade buying orders were being canceled.

Stop orders were uncovered as the decline proceeded, and while the volumn of business tapered off somewhat after their execution, the lowest prices of the day were reached during the afternoon. March held off to 15.64, July to 16.05 and October to 16.29, making net declines of 36 to 45 points on the active positions. Trade buying was more in evidence below the 16c level for May, and caused moderate rallies, although they were not maintained as the bulges seemed to meet increased offerings, which were supposed to include some selling for Southern account.

Closing quotations were about the lowest for the day.

Liverpool cables attributed the decline there to continental and Bombay liquidation, but said fluctuations had been absorbed by covering promoted by the reduction in the Bank of England rate. According to these advices, the decline in Egyptian cotton was influenced by the bearish estimates of the Sudan crop. Some of the cable advices received here said there was a slightly better inquiry for cotton goods in Manchester, while others reported buyers cautious, and said business with India was restricted by fear of increased import business. The failure of the declines to bring in more general or aggressive support locally, probably increased the disposition to liquidate long contracts.

Exports today 16,971, making 5,085,687 so far this season.

Port receipts, 10,253; U. S. port stocks, 2,363,426.

BOND PRICES CLIMB IN LARGE TURNOVER

Easier Credit Outlook Aids General Rise, With U. S. Shares Leading.

CONVERTIBLES ARE DULL

New York, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Responding to expectations of easier money, the bond market made another general advance today in the most active session of the year. News of the Bank of England's rate reduction was taken as an indication that the local Federal Reserve Bank might also make a downward revision—as proved to be the case—and the market proceeded rather vigorously.

United States Governments had little difficulty in moving broadly higher. The Treasury 4½s improved ¾ of a point, the 3⅜s of 1943-47 gained 15-32, and the 4s advanced 17-32. Rises in the Liberties were somewhat smaller.

Domestic issues of high grade, especially the rails, had good support and this trend, together with the rise of the Government securities, was regarded as a significant turn in the market which has been idling for several weeks under the pressure of new financing. Great Northern 7s, Kansas City Southern 5s, Atchison general 4s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas prior lien 4s, New York Central 4s, New Haven 4½s, several Pennsylvania issues, Union Pacific first 4s, and Southern Railway general 4s, as well as numerous secondary obligations, were accumulated in some volume.

The more active industrials and utilities included American Telephone 5s of 1965, Sinclair Pipe Line 5s, Louisville Gas & Electric 5s, International Telephone 5s and Midvale Steel 5½s, all of which worked higher.

There was less activity in the foreign list, although several prominent loans turned over in lively fashion. French Republic 7½s were heavily traded, selling off ¼ in a turnover of about $400,000, principal amount. Chile 6s (March), Italy 7s and Japanese 4s were other centers of interest. The German Republic 7s rose half a point.

Convertibles had a dull and irregular session. American Telephone 4½s regained a point of a 2-point loss, closing at 149. American I. G. Chemical 5½s, rose ½, while International Telephone 4½s eased.

New offerings scheduled for tomorrow embrace another railroad loan. A syndicate is selling $15,000,000 in Louisville & Nashville first and refunding 4½s, due 2003, at 95, and $5,000,000 in the same road's unified 4s, due 1940, at 94½.

Comptroller Clerk Retires.

John G. Herndon, chief clerk, office of the Comptroller of the Currency, retired yesterday after 42 years' active service, during which he had never been late to work or taken a days' leave without pay.

In the presence of a group of admirers, he was presented with a beautiful gold watch, the gift of fellow employes of the Treasury Department, Comptroller of the Currency J. W. Pole, making the speech of presentation and praising Mr. Herndon's faithful service.

The New York Life Insurance Co.'s dividends in 1930 will amount to $71,775,000, according to the company's annual statement published elsewhere in this paper. The new business in 1929 amounted to over $953,000,000. On December 31, the insurance in force was $7,266,000,000, while the company's total resources were $1,665,000,000, invested chiefly in bonds and real estate mortgages.

In his annual message to policyholders, President Darwin P. Kingsley points out the significant part which each policyholder is taking in stabilizing the economic situation of society at large. The total insurance in force in American and Canadian companies is now about $110,000,000,000, of which about one-fifteenth is in New York Life.

This $110,000,000,000 exceeds the resources of all the banks by about $34,000,000,000 and is many times as large as the total resources of all foundations and endowments for education and research. "Outstanding life insurance," says President Kingsley, "is the greatest trust ever created."

Says Mergers Beneficial.

Corporation mergers usually yield benefits, according to the latest bulletin of the Washington office of Ernst & Ernst, but the number of contemplated mergers not soundly conceived is too great. "Mergers in themselves are no panacea for diminishing returns on investments. It frequently happens that expected savings are rather negligible in the final result. Well-intended centralized control of units sometimes amounts to interference with their efficiency and retards the development of local talent. It is highly important to establish certain principles which should be given ample consideration before a merger is carried out.

"The most important factors to consider in any corporation merger movement are: Economic and legal soundness of the merger, management, financial position, earning power, formula or plan of merger and launching the merged business."

Edward L. Brady, former rental manager of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., who has been appointed assistant real estate officer of that institution, has been associated with the company since 1909, and has been its rental manager since 1915.

George L. Starkey, president of the National Bank of Washington, has been confined to his home for several days with a severe cold.

A hundred students of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, made an educational tour of the offices of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. Wednesday night.

Mutual Life's Year Good.

The Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York reports fine progress in the year 1929. During the year it established its highest yearly record in volume of new business written, and on December 31, 1929, the total of insurance upon its books was $4,298,774,546.

During 1929 the company paid $46,263,026 in death claims (including double indemnity claims), $3,982,470 for matured endowments, $1,627,251 under annuities, $2,354,896 as income under income settlement provisions under policies, $2,633,105 under disability provisions, and $43,361,991 in dividends.

On December 31, 1929, the company's assets were $990,934,923.61, and its liabilities, excluding contingency reserve, were $928,085,330.85. The gain in assets was $63,617,644.09.

The contingency reserve (surplus) on December 31, 1929, was $62,849,592.76.

Attachment Writ Out for Lavarre

Arrest Ordered When He Fails to Appear for Contempt Hearing.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 6 (A.P.).—An order for a writ of attachment on William Lavarre, South Carolina publisher, requiring him to appear in Federal court at Augusta, Ga., February 13, was issued by Judge Bascom S. Deaver in United States District Court here today.

Lavarre previously had been ordered to appear today in the Macon court to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt for his alleged resistance of efforts of J. T. Webb, jr., commissioner, to take over control of the Spartanburg (S. C.) Herald, the Spartanburg Journal and the Columbia (S. C.) Record in accordance with court orders. The publisher failed to appear today and the writ of attachment was issued on request of Benjamin E. Pierce, attorney for Webb.

Judge Deaver said that writ would be forwarded to Federal authorities at Columbia for issuance of an arrest warrant. Lavarre at present is under $2,000 bond, pending appeal of a 60-day jail sentence or a $600 fine imposed Monday at Spartanburg in connection with his alleged violation of a temporary injunction.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 5.

Recognizing that single persons, by reason of the care and support of others, are entitled to consideration, the law provides that the "head of a family" shall be allowed the same personal exemption granted a married person, $3,500. The head of a family is defined by regulations relating to the income tax as "an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation.

Several factors are involved in determining whether a taxpayer is to be thus classified. In maintaining the home and providing for the dependent individual or individuals, the taxpayer's right to exercise family control must be based on some moral or legal obligation. The element of either legal or financial dependency must exist. A taxpayer who has minor children is legally liable for their support. If he supports and exercises family control over them, even though they have an income of their own sufficient for their support and maintenance, he is classified as the head of a family. If he does not support them; however, but does exercise family control, the common home being maintained, he can not be classified as the head of a family.

If by reason of illness or absence on account of business the taxpayer and dependents are separated, the common home being maintained and the taxpayer furnishing the support, the exemption as head of a family is allowed. Moreover, if a taxpayer does not maintain a common home but the dependents are at school or supported with relatives, or in a boarding house, while he lives elsewhere, the exemption is still allowed. If, however, without necessity, the dependent continuously makes his home elsewhere, his benefactor is not the head of a family.

For income-tax purposes there can be only one head of a family. The exemption can not be divided.

Natives Aid Search For Fliers' Bodies

Russian Directs Work of Digging Around Eielson Wreck.

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 6 (A.P.).—Search for the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, which began 12 days ago when their wrecked plane was found, continued today under the direction of the Russian pilot, Slipnev.

Natives, augmented by Slipnev and three men who flew with him to the scene from the icebound Russian ship Stavropol yesterday, were digging in snow and ice covering the widely strewn wreckage.

Unfavorable weather prevented Pat Reid, the Canadian, from flying to Teller, Alaska, from the trading ship Nanuk. He was to carry as passengers, Capt. Olaf Swenson, of the Nanuk, his 17-year-old daughter, Marion, and Capt. Milozorov, master of the Stavropol.

EIGHTY-FIFTH ANNUAL STATEMENT

To the Policy-holders:

I wonder if you know how important you with other Policy-holders have collectively become in the economic life of the world. You think of your life insurance as an important factor in your plans for yourself and your families, but I doubt whether you yet comprehend what you are actually doing for the world at large.

I am speaking to you now as a part of the 70,000,000 people insured in all companies in the United States and Canada. I am speaking to you as part owner of the $19,000,000,000 which has actually been assembled for the protection of beneficiaries under the $110,000,000,000 of coverage which now exists. Never before in the history of the world have individuals voluntarily, privately and cooperatively pledged such a sum for mutual protection or for any purpose.

This coverage exceeds the total resources of all the banks in the United States and Canada, including savings banks, by about $34,000,000,000. It is equal to all the resources of all our Foundations and Endowments for Education and Research, multiplied many times. Our educational, medical, scientific and charitable institutions are in the hands of trustees whose powers are wisely limited by the terms of the instruments on which the trusts rest. The Trustees of these foundations seldom have any very wide discretion as to how funds under their control shall be distributed. Neither have we.

Outstanding life insurance ($110,000,000,000) is the greatest trust ever created. It, too, is managed by Trustees. The Trustees are the Directors of the various companies with whom continuously sit certain familiar figures. They are Life, Death, Disability, Necessity and Old Age.

Death has heretofore been a terrible figure because life was not organized against him. Now life is so organized. Death will ultimately come to all of us. Nobody doubts that and nobody can change it. The terror of Death (I am not now considering any religious question) lies in his cruel, remorseless and uncertain stroke. In that has been his victory.

Life Insurance faces Death not as a Terror but as a fact and deals with him just as it deals with bonds or real estate mortgages.

Let me show you how vital those $110,000,000,000 are. Back of these pledged billions lie three great forces.

First—the $19,000,000,000 in cash and securities in hand;

Second—the seventy million people who have contracted, directly or indirectly, to pay future premiums;

Third—the power of compound interest.

Together they make that $110,000,000,000 the most vital and useful force in all sociology.

Now try to visualize what is coming. Outstanding Insurance will become $200,000,000,000, $300,000,000,000, possibly much more, but it will always have those three great forces, the first two correspondingly increased, behind it. Because of its peculiar relation to the weaknesses and needs of human life it is and always will be worth more than a like sum in cash. To illustrate—

Death sits with this great Board of Trustees and Death still strikes but, in your case, not as of old. Life also sits with the Board and by quickly translating individual productive power into cash it despoils Death of his old and faithful servitor, Poverty.

Disability, crueler than Death, also sits with that Board and demands and receives stipulated sums when the bread winner fails and becomes a burden.

Necessity and Old Age also sit with that Board and are covered by the underlying instruments.

All these benefits are specified in the Great Deed of Trust: the policies in force.

Some of you, most, I hope, will agree when I say that Life Insurance has come to be the most important beneficial enterprise in the manifold problems of living.

My main point is that you, beginning with your individual needs and obligations, have not only minimized the terrors of Death, Disability and Old Age, but you have come, as a group, to be one of the largest holders of useful securities in the world.

You are the only group that ever existed having courage and sanity in the current problems of living to rob Death of his terrors by dealing with him as an ultimate fact.

As a group you are not capitalists, yet you have become the greatest of capitalists.

Following your impulse of self-protection you have created the greatest of all beneficial institutions.

Seeking to banish the need of charity from your own household, you have shown how the need of charity may be completely banished from every household.
